CHICAGO SET FOR GOAT AND MULE PIGSKIN RUMPUS

Teams Arrive Today, Cadets Tomorrow.

Details of pilgrimage of the Army and Navy teams to Chicago, with Walter Eckersall's analysis of team strength and feature stories on players, will be found in sports section.

BY CENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

One pigskin oval, which won't be snapped into play until Saturday afternoon, when the Navy squad meets the Army eleven on Soldiers' field, just about obliterates the Thanksgiving turkey today.

For Chicago is gleefully anticipating the three play record it is set Saturday: (1) The first city west of the seaboard states to be host to an Army-Navy football contest; (2) a crowd of 100,000 plus in the grand stands to witness a gridiron spectacle; (3) a gate of $800,000. Yesterday the city became exuberantly athletic, with, of course, a wealth of social and civic prospects in the bargain.

Teams Arrive Today. Athletically, the two teams arrive this afternoon, within a few hours of each other, detain secretly outside the loop, go to their hotels, hold secret practices, and return to their hotels to spend the evening strictly incommunicado.

Of primary athletic interest, too, is the word that Soldiers' field is preened and fit for the great day of dedication and for the great day of football play. Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, last night announced the two latest, and they are also the last, improvements to be installed.

The one is an electric scoreboard, costing $10,000 and definitely visible to all parts of the stadium. The other is an elaborate loud speaker system, valued at $35,000, to enable those who can't see the game to hear it.

Bogus Tickets Reported. It was reported last night that counterfeit tickets to the game had appeared in Chicago and were being offered by peddlers and others in the loop at reduced prices.

Purchasers of such tickets will be out of luck on the day of the game, President Kelly warned. He said that any persons presenting bogus tickets would be taken to police stations and questioned as to their source. In addition, he said, the authorities will be on the lookout for the bogus pasteboards.

Expert engravers who assisted in making the real tickets will be at the gates and will be able to detect a bogus ticket as soon as they see it. If any persons holding such tickets should get into the field the experts will be called upon to settle disputes between holders of genuine and bogus tickets. Holders of the latter will be taken from the field.

Crowded Social Events. Socially, every middleman and cadet, every general and admiral, who stops off in Chicago this week-end can have his engagement book as filled as a calendar.

Tomorrow noon Marshall Field's is giving a luncheon to 1,540 middies, the 1,115 cadets who will have arrived a few hours before, and to several hundred distinguished guests. Tomorrow afternoon there is a reception at the Union League club.

Tomorrow night at seven o'clock the dinner dance at the Drake, given by the mayor's committee. More than 4,000 will be present. More than 2,000 girls from all parts of the country received invitations. Only fifty-five declined. After the dance are theater performances.

As an unofficial auxiliary to the celebration the Arden Shore organization is giving a military ball at the Hotel Sherman.

Big Luncheon on Saturday. Saturday, again, the social competes with the athletic. The Field museum will be the scene of another huge luncheon at 11:30 when the West Point and Naval Academy association of Chicago are hosts to Army and Navy officers.

The Hamilton club, the Fort Dearborn town club and many other organizations have offered hospitality to the visitors.

In the evening after the game there are many jollifications. The Chicago Association of West Pointers, headed by Col. Edward Cassin, is sponsoring a dinner dance at the Drake hotel, to which the Navy is invited.

Army-Navy Club Ball. The Army and Navy club of Chicago is giving a ball in the Florentine and gold rooms of the Congress hotel. At 11:30 the football trophies will be presented to representatives of the two teams.

THANKSGIVING SOLILOQUY OF UNCLE SAM

Pride goeth before a fall. Only a short time ago you were the biggest, proudest, and most important of all the barnyard fowls. All the others looked upon you with jealousy and envy.

You were smug and vain. The barnyard echoed with your explosive gobble as you strutted about swelled with pride and soft living. No suspicion of impending disaster disturbed your well-fed complacency.

And now where are you? Perhaps there is a moral in this for me. Today I am the biggest and most important of all nations. I am staggering under the weight of material blessings.

With all my riches and power there is the temptation to become smug and boastful—to take my blessings as a matter of course and without proper humility of spirit.

May I never cease to be thankful for the rich harvest which nature and my industrious children so bountifully give me.

May I never forget that the greatest and proudest of nations have crumbled.

Bandit-Moron Appears Again as Police Hunt

A man, presumably the elusive gray clad bandit who has been leading out all sorts of police traps for weeks, appeared again last night on a new section of the north side, even while the police of the Rogers Park station thought they had the probable suspect in custody at last.

It was while detectives were trying to establish that Gunnar Carlson, 21 years old, of 1013 North La Salle street, was the man sought, that the presumed real-bandit appeared. He jumped out of an alleyway near 2015 Addison street, placed a pistol at the head of Mrs. Hazel Ekbergson, 25 years old, of 2140 Addison street, and then dragged her back into the alley.

She fled with Bandit. Once in the alley the robber took $11 from Mrs. Ekbergson. The young woman, afraid to cry out, then pleaded with the bandit to liberate her.

She later told the police that he stood irresolute for a moment or two, said something under his breath, and then pushed her into a back yard unharmed.

Mrs. Ekbergson's description of the bandit, his clothing and method tallied exactly with that of a score of women whom he has seized on the north side in the last eight weeks. She said he had on a gray overcoat and gray flannel hat and that he kept a white handkerchief or muffler over the lower part of his face.

Fall to Identify Suspect. In the meantime Carlson, who had been captured early in the day coming out of a dark passageway at 7833 Greenview avenue with a toy pistol in his pocket, was being shown to Florence Stavrum, 15 year old Benn High school girl, who was robbed near her home at 1424 Juneway terrace on the night of Nov. 5.

Carlson had confessed to Capt. Patrick J. Gallery that he had attacked a girl in this neighborhood. Miss Stavrum failed to identify him. She said she wasn't sure, and so also did a number of other women who were brought to the station and shown Carlson.

Carlson's roommate, Theodore Barko, 21 years old, also was arrested when police raided Carlson's and Barko's rooms. Both said they had only recently come to Chicago from Minnesota.

Baby Sleeps in Tub; Turns on Water; Scalded to Death. Owing to crowded sleeping quarters in an apartment house, the baby of a mother who had been sleeping in a bathtub, died of scalding.

The mother, Mrs. Mary Ann, 34, of 1115 North La Salle street, was arrested when police raided her apartment house at 11:30 p. m. last night. She was found in a bathtub with her baby in it. The baby was found dead.

Lewis Larson at Home Again After 3 Years

Lewis E. Larson, former business manager of the Chicago School board, who, after being mysteriously missing since March 7, 1923, recently was found in Texas, has returned to his home in Wilmette.

Larson arrived unheralded from Texas last night, was met at the station by his family, Mrs. Mary A. Larson, his wife, Lucille, his daughter, and Leonard, his son, and drove directly home. After a hearty dinner (the first he has partaken of at his own board for more than three and a half years) he strolled contentedly into the sitting room and dropped into his familiar easy chair.

He's Glad to Be Home. "My, it's good to be home again," he exclaimed, reaching up for one of his favorite volumes.

"Yes, and it's good to have him home again," echoed Mrs. Larson. About his three years' wanderings in Texas and elsewhere after he dropped from sight in the Chicago loop district on a cold spring day in 1923 Mr. Larson did not appear to be inclined to talk. At the time he was renting agent for the Chicago Temple building, which was just nearing completion.

Believes He Broke Down. "I was suffocated with the detail of my position. I guess I overloaded myself and just broke down under the strain," he explained simply.

"But," and he brightened perceptibly, "I'm well established now in Texas and am hurrying back after a few days with my family. It is a great and growing country down there."

Today Larson and his family will be dinner guests at the home of Attorney Harper E. Osborn, 715 Linden avenue, Wilmette, a kinman. Osborn had charge of the long search for Larson and never lost hope. On Friday and Saturday, before returning to Dallas, Larson announced, he will renew acquaintance with Chicago, looking over the new loop structures.

Threatened to Shoot Sister. The method used by Consuelo's mother, witnesses unanimously declared, was to "make continuous scenes," until she gradually wore down Consuelo's resistance to the suit of the duke. She claimed she was suffering from heart disease and would die unless the wedding was arranged. She even threatened to shoot Ruthertford if Consuelo ever thought of him again.

Ruthless and stubborn, as she is described, she overruled all her daughter's objections and announced the engagement of Consuelo to the duke and thus forced Consuelo's hand.

These facts were stated not only by Consuelo herself, but were confirmed by her mother and by Consuelo's aunt, Mrs. Lucy Day and Mrs. Tiffany, and by numerous other witnesses whose names were not given. The Duke of Marlborough, himself, confirmed the facts, stating that only twenty days after the wedding Consuelo confessed to him that she had married only because she was compelled to do so by her mother.

Consuelo herself stated she never loved the duke even after marriage. "The arrangement of his character created in me a sentiment of hostility," she seemed to despise anything that was not British, and my pride was hurt," she said.

The Church Court's Verdict. The sentence of the tribunal last night was: "Born of a very distinguished American family and baptised, and of a non-Catholic religion, Consuelo Vanderbilt, when she reached the age of 17, fell violently in love with a certain Ruthertford, with whom she had become secretly engaged."

Her mother, learning of this, promptly refused to grant her daughter's wish, and, in order to destroy a love already born in the daughter's heart, led her to Europe in 1894. As Consuelo was a girl who took with her youth, beauty, and a great fortune, she thought of marrying her to some man who occupied a prominent position among the greatest of English nobility.

Having met in London Charles, duke of Marlborough, she invited him as a guest of the family to Newport, in the United States, where mother and daughter returned shortly afterwards.

Forced Into Marriage. "Marlborough accepted the invitation, and in September of 1895 went to New York, where for about 15 days he lived with the Vanderbilt family. On the day before the departure of Marlborough he asked Consuelo to be his wife. Consuelo had refused to her mother, but the next day the news was unjustly spread in the newspapers of her wonderful engagement to the duke. This her mother, and that she therefore had betrayed the love of another man. Through their social draw apart, two children were born of the marriage.

In the year 1905 the couple legally separated and in the year 1906 obtained a civil divorce by common consent, whereafter each remarried. Finally, in 1925, Consuelo appealed to the diocesan court of Southwark (England) for an annulment of her marriage with Marlborough. The court, having conducted trial according to the approved rites, on Feb. 9, emitted the sentence declaring the marriage annulled for violence and intimidation. The defender of the bond appealed to this tribunal which is now called upon to decide whether the nullity of the marriage was indeed substantiated.

Tells of Love for American.
The tribunal of the rota sentence says it must, in other words, decide whether the intimidation brought to bear was of such nature and gravity as to render the marriage invalid. "Consuelo, the appellant party in the case, plighted her troth to Rutherford, whom she violently loved, and her mother, who strongly opposed the match, brought overpowering forces into play to wrest the heart of the daughter from that man and prevent her marrying him. The appellant, in fact, testified as follows:
"My mother came from the influence of my sweetheart. She made me leave the country. She intercepted all the letters my sweetheart wrote and all of mine to him. She caused continuous scenes. She said I must obey."

"She said I knew very well that I had no right to choose a husband, that I must take the man she had chosen; that my refusal was ruining her health and I might be the cause of her death. There was a terrible scene in which she told me that if I succeeded in escaping she would shoot my sweetheart and she would therefore be imprisoned and hanged and I would be responsible."

Story Confirmed by Mrs. Belmont.
"This story not only was confirmed by her mother, but also by other witnesses in every most minute particular, so that there is no possibility of doubt as to its truth."

"But," continues the sentence, "it must now be seen not only whether the mother separated her daughter from her fiancé, but also whether she forced her to enter into matrimony with Marlborough. In this connection the appellant party must produce proof which shall cause moral certitude that intimidation was actually used."

"The appellant party, in fact, brought forward numerous proofs which cannot leave the shadow of a doubt. She said: 'Having destroyed the possibility of marrying the man I loved, mother told me she had chosen a man for me whom she considered suitable under all respects, who was about to arrive in America as her guest, and that she had already negotiated for my marriage with him.'"

"I insisted on declaring that if I married Marlborough I would be yielding to tremendous pressure of my mother and following her wish absolutely. In addition, mention has been made that mother told me several times that if I insisted upon opposing her will it might easily kill her. I have also the opinion of a doctor whom

VANDERBILTS AND SPENCER-CHURCHILLS FAMOUS FAMILIES

The Duke of Marlborough (Sir Charles Richard Spencer-Churchill) is the ninth of his line to bear the title. The Churchills trace their lineage back to the fifteenth century during the reign of Edward IV. The dukedom was created for John Churchill, famous English general in 1702. His son dying in childhood the title passed to his eldest daughter who also died, and then to his second daughter Anne. She became the wife of Charles Spencer, third Earl of Sunderland, whose son was the third duke of Marlborough. The title has remained in the Spencer-Churchill family ever since.

Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer is a cousin of the present duke.
Consuelo Vanderbilt, the former Duchess of Marlborough and now Mrs. Jacques Balsan, is the daughter of the late William K. Vanderbilt and the present Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. Her great grandfather, Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, founded the family's fortune through the development of shipping and railroad interests centering around the port of New York. He was born on Staten Island in 1794, the son of a Dutch immigrant, and died in 1877.

I met through a friend of mother, Mrs. Jay. "As Consuelo," continues the sentence, "was endowed with every womanly grace and with great wealth—and this is most important—her mother, who was driven by her desire for a title of nobility, substituted another man for the one whom Consuelo loved passionately."

"When she met the duke of Marlborough in London she immediately wanted him to come and be her guest at Newport, in order that she might not propose her daughter to him but force her daughter to marry him."

The sentence here recalls Consuelo's words: "She said I must obey, that I knew very well I had no right to choose myself a husband, that I must take the man she had chosen."

Duke Admits Marriage Loveless.
"Consuelo's evidence," continues the sentence, "would not have value in itself, as it is made by appellant party herself. It is confirmed, however, by the precise depositions of numerous other witnesses. The duke of Marlborough himself testified that only about twenty days after the wedding his wife herself told him she had married him only because forced to do so by her mother."

"She told me," he said, "that her mother had insisted on her marrying me, that her mother was strongly opposed to her marrying Rutherford, and that she had used every form of pressure just short of physical violence to reach her end."

"Consuelo's mother, who inflicted this intimidation, did not hesitate to confess and declare: 'I forced my daughter to marry the duke. I have always had absolute power over my daughter, my children having been entrusted to me entirely after my divorce; I alone had charge of their education. When I issued an order nobody disobeyed it. I therefore not begged, but ordered, her to marry the duke. I asked the duke to come to stay with me at Newport. He came and stayed about a fortnight. I told Consuelo he was the husband I had chosen for her. She was very much upset and said she could not marry him. I considered myself justified in overriding her opposition, which I considered merely the whim of a young and inexperienced girl."

Aunt Calls It Coercion.
"The aunt of the appellant party, Mrs. Jay, testified:
"This marriage has been imposed by my sister on her daughter, who wished to marry another man."

"On being asked this question by one of the judges, 'Do you believe that the means used to force the marriage were mere persuasion or actual coercion,' she replied: 'No persuasion at all. Coercion absolutely. This I am aware of and this I know.'"

"Our conclusions are corroborated," it continues, "by the positive aversion

Consuelo had for Marlborough.

"Despite all this," states the sentence, "Consuelo did not easily fall in with her mother's wishes. It is on record that she broke down and wept when first told she must marry the duke and did so again the next day when her engagement to him was announced in the newspapers."

"The truth that Consuelo was coerced is further shown by the fact that her mother, fearing Consuelo might at the last moment change her mind and retract her consent to marry the duke which had been extracted from her, placed a guard at the door of her room on the day of the wedding so that nobody could speak to or even approach her. Still further evidence is supplied by Marlborough, who said, 'She came very late to the wedding and appeared much troubled.'"

"The tribunal of the rota therefore unanimously has decided to uphold the sentence of the diocesan tribunal of Southwark in declaring the marriage annulled on the grounds of the violence and intimidation."

Rutherford Admits Romance.
New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Winthrop Rutherford, a descendant of Peter Stuyvesant, last Dutch governor of New York, was the young American with whom Consuelo Vanderbilt was in love when she married the duke of Marlborough in 1895, says the New York World.

"Yes," the World quotes Winthrop Rutherford as saying, "some thirty years ago I knew Miss Vanderbilt and I was one of her great admirers."

At the time he became an admirer of Consuelo Vanderbilt, Mr. Rutherford was about 30.
For seven years after the Marlborough-Vanderbilt wedding, Mr. Rutherford remained a bachelor. In 1902, when he was about 40, he married Alice Morton, the youngest daughter of Levi P. Morton, then governor of New York. Mrs. Rutherford died in 1917. In 1920 Rutherford married Miss Lucy F. Marcer.

FIND $200,000 MORTGAGE; HOME OWNERS LOSE

Loan Association Official Hunted on Warrant.

Several hundred members of the Loan Association and Loan Association Building and Loan Association, 1647 Ewing Avenue, last night issued a warrant for the arrest of Albert J. Galliet, secretary of the association, who is alleged to have pocketed $200,000 of the association's money.

Family Prominent for Years. The Galliet family has been prominent in the far south side for many years. Forty years ago his grandfather, M. V. Galliet, founded the loan association with which his son is connected. The Galliet school, 104th and Ewing Avenue, was named after the family.

At a meeting of 800 people, most of them stockholders, held in the Galliet school Tuesday night, resolutions were passed authorizing the directors to make good the shortage.

Announcement was made there that the secretary had admitted his conversion of association funds and he had turned over all of his real and personal property. Clarence D. Macey, former president and now secretary of the association, said Galliet's resignation amounted to about half of his savings.

Unable to Trace Funds. Assistant State's Attorney Ward

last night said that the authorities had been unable to locate Galliet. John S. Kowalski of the state auditor's office stated the shortage may be considerably above the amount indicated.

Attention was first drawn to Galliet several weeks ago when a crowd gathered at his office seeking an explanation of his affairs. At that time they were assured everything was all right.

In addition to his loan association connections Galliet conducted a real estate and insurance business. His home is at 1100 Leola Avenue.

HERRICK TALKS AT FRANCO-U. S. "LOVE FEAST"

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Nov. 24.—French wine, mingling with American turkey and cranberries, tonight turned the annual Thanksgiving dinner, attended by 500 members of the American club, in Paris, into what Ambassador Myron T. Herrick in his talk termed a "Franco-American love feast."

Gen. Gouraud, the lion of Champagne, the guest of honor, said: "France, like any honest individual, will pay her debts. All she asks is that she be not obliged to pay faster nor more than Germany."

This solitary reference to the taboos subject brought thunderous cheers from the long standing American residents of Paris, the majority of whom have not returned to the United States since the war.

Des Plaines School Girl, Aged 13, Missing for Week

Gertrude Baessler, a pretty 13-year-old girl who lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christ Baessler, 1035 Des Plaines Avenue, Des Plaines, has disappeared, leaving no clue to her whereabouts, it was learned last night.

The child attended the Lutheran parochial school in Des Plaines and was last seen by her parents and playmates on Nov. 17. She wore a green coat with brown fur collar and trimmings, a blue and white polka-dot dress, patent leather slippers and light colored stockings.

SOCIETY WOMEN HURT AS AUTOS CRASH ON 'DRIVE'

Mrs. Elting, Mrs. Hollis Are Recovering.

Mrs. Victor Elting of the Lake Shore Drive hotel and Mrs. Henry L. Hollis, 232 East Walton place, both well known in north side society, are recovering from severe injuries received in an automobile accident last Monday afternoon. It was learned yesterday.

The two women were in the Hollis automobile, being driven south in Lake Shore drive by Edward Durkin, a chauffeur, when at Scott street a north bound automobile, driven by William Weston, 1415 Edgewood Avenue, crashed into their car. Both women sustained broken bones. Mrs. Hollis, taken to St. Luke's hospital, had two broken ribs.

Driver Arrested, Then Released. Weston was taken into custody, but Mr. Hollis declared he did not wish to prosecute him for the present and he was released.

One death yesterday raised the county's motor toll for the year to $63. Tito Salvino, 50 years old, 705 South Racine Avenue, gave his life in an effort to save 5-year-old Gloria Monica from being struck by a truck. Salvino was watching the little girl, stepdaughter of his son, off to school Tuesday when he saw her step into the path of the truck. He rushed into the street and was himself knocked down when the driver swerved his vehicle to avoid hitting the girl. Salvino received injuries which caused his death yesterday. The truck driver was John H. Clarke, 2333 North Kedzie Avenue.

Two Hurt in Crash.

Two persons were seriously injured and two others cut and bruised last night when one of them, mistaking the signal of a switchman, drove his automobile on the 800 line tracks at Lawrence Avenue and Ruby Street, Schiller Park. The car was wrecked when hit by a box car being switched to a siding. The two seriously hurt are Mrs. Elvina Laack, 48 years old, Elkhardt, Wis., and Viola Laack, 17 years old, her daughter.

PLANE FOUND

The body of a plane, flying from Houston, Texas, to Panama, was found yesterday. The plane, a Cessna, was found on the beach near the Gulf of Mexico, about 100 miles south of Cuba. The plane was found by a local fisherman. The pilot was not found.

Struck by an Illinois Central locomotive yesterday while crossing the tracks at 524 Street, Jerry Scanlon, 37 years old, was fatally injured.

NEGRO FREED OF SLAYING IN AUTO COLLISION

After a deliberation of less than 39 minutes a jury in Chief Justice William J. Lindsay's criminal court acquitted George Smith, negro, who was charged with manslaughter. On June 11 Smith, while driving recklessly and at an excessive rate of speed, it was charged, crashed into a machine, fatally injuring Charles Mickelberry, son of the packer.

William Bohan, driver of the car in which young Mickelberry was riding along with Miss Harriet Stover, 1214 East Sixty-second street, a University of Chicago co-ed, was also fatally injured. Smith, however, was not indicted for Bohan's death.

The accident occurred in South Park way near Adams street. It was charged by the state that Smith drove on the wrong side of the road. Smith's defense was that the collision was unavoidable.

WHITMAN IS NEAR DEATH FROM NEW COMPLICATIONS

John L. Whitman, former warden of Joliet penitentiary, was still fighting for life last night in the Ravenswood hospital, but new complications his death may occur at any time, his physician and nephew, Dr. Newton D. Lee, announced.

"His heart action is fairly good," Dr. Lee said, "but his resistance is gradually weakening." The ex-warden, who was dismissed following an investigation into prison conditions after seven convicts had escaped after killing Deputy Warden Klein, worried himself into his present condition, Dr. Lee said. Mr. Whitman is 64 years old.

MARCONI, WIRELESS WIZARD, ASKS CHURCH TO ANNUL MARRIAGE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

ROME, Nov. 24.—Within the next few days the tribunal of the sacred Rota will hear a process to declare null and void the marriage of Senator Guglielmo Marconi, noted wireless inventor, with Beatrice O'Brien Marconi, daughter of Baron Inchiquin. The marriage, which was dissolved by civil divorce a few years ago, already has been declared void by the curia of Westminster, London.

If the sentence of the Rota confirms that of the Westminster curia, the declaration of nullity will become definitive. The cause for the annulment consists in a condition agreed on at the time of the marriage that it would be dissolved if it proved agreeable to the husband or wife. This condition, according to the doctrine of the Roman Catholic church, renders void the original contract of marriage.

Sig. Marconi's former wife is now married to Marquis Monie Corsini. Sig. Marconi is variously reported as being engaged to a Rome society woman and a young English girl.

Sensor Marconi was received by Pope Pius today in a private audience in the papal library. He explained to the pope the newest wireless developments. The conversation lasted thirty-five minutes, and at the conclusion the pope presented Sig. Marconi with a magnificent gold medal. Afterward Sig. Marconi visited the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Gasparri.

C. AND ILLINOIS SETTLE OLD LAW SUIT OVER TAXES

Agan Twenty Years Ago;
Cost Near 2 Millions.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 24.—(AP)—A state suit instituted twenty years ago against the Illinois Central Railroad company was ended today in an agreement by the railroad to change its method of computing its charter line gross receipts, pay the state $1,500,000 as the balance of taxes due since 1906, and assume unpaid costs of the litigation.

A final decree was entered in the La Salle county Circuit court today by Judge C. C. Stough upon a stipulation by Oscar E. Carlstrom, state attorney general, who arrived at the agreement after protracted conferences with W. S. Horton, general counsel, and Charles H. Markham, former president and now chairman of the board of the Illinois Central.

Cost of Suit Near Two Millions.

Other litigation pending in Cook county also was dropped.

The long court contest has cost Illinois more than $900,000, according to Mr. Carlstrom, and promised to continue indefinitely. The cost to the Illinois Central also reached approximately that figure, according to Mr. Markham.

Under terms of the charter granted the Illinois Central in 1851, the railroad was given 2,585,125 acres of land added to the state by the federal government to further construction of a line to the Gulf of Mexico. In return the railroad agreed to pay into the state treasury 7 per cent of its gross income.

Mileage Has Vastly Increased.

The mileage of the original charter line is 705.5, while the entire system of the Illinois Central has grown to approximately 5,000 miles. The mileage over the original charter line has paid ordinary taxation.

The state contended that earnings were not properly apportioned as between charter lines and noncharter lines, and that by improperly apportioning earnings the railroad deprived the state of millions of dollars.

Since its organization the Illinois Central has paid more than $27,000,000 in taxes under the charter obligation and more than $60,000,000 in total taxes.

The general interests of the state and the wisdom of the policy of co-operation as far as possible fairly and properly between the state government and an essential element of its

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 24.—The Soviet censorship slipped yesterday. It is shown in a dispatch from Moscow, which relates how the official telegraph agency of the Soviet republic broadcast a dispatch to all the Soviet papers telling how the treachery of the English labor leaders is forcing the miners to return to work, when they receive only 7 shillings ($1.75) a day. The Soviet story thus disclosed that the English worker was receiving more than twice as much as the miners of Russia.

DEVER APPOINTS 3 NEW MEMBERS TO SCHOOL BOARD

Would Retain Smietanka
and Mrs. Hefferan.

School board membership, depleted by death and term expirations, will be brought back to normal if Mayor Dever's appointments, recommended to the city council yesterday, are approved. Mr. Dever named three new members and recommended that Mrs. W. S. Hefferan succeed herself. In view of the mayor's majority in the council, city officials believe that the appointments will stand. The changes recommended were:

Dr. Otto L. Schmidt to succeed to the membership of the late president of the board, Edward B. Elliott. It is understood that if Dr. Schmidt accepts he will be offered the presidency of the board. This term expires in 1931.

Charles J. Vopicka to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Victor R. Schiller. Term expires in 1929.

W. J. Raymer to replace Coath. Walter John Raymer to replace J. Lewis Coath, whose term has expired. Mr. Raymer's term would extend until 1931.

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan to succeed herself for another six years.

Julius F. Smietanka, vice president of the board, whose term has expired, to remain a member indefinitely.

On motion of Ald. Ross A. Woodhull, the mayor's floor leader the appointments were sent to the committee on schools.

Mr. Vopicka is a Bohemian by birth, but he has been a resident of the United States since 1880. He has been a Chicago resident since 1881 except for seven years, 1913-1920, when he was minister plenipotentiary to Roumania, Serbia, and the Balkans. He was a member of the school board for a brief period, 1901-02.

Dr. Schmidt Noncommittal.

Dr. Schmidt is president of the Chicago Historical society and a consulting physician at the Alesian Brothers and Grant hospitals. He received his medical training at Wurzburg and Vienna. Though his name several times has been mentioned in connection with the presidency of the board, Dr. Schmidt has been reluctant to declare himself.

Mr. Raymer is a native of Canada and a naturalized citizen of the United States. He was born in Woodstock, Ont., in 1864; came to Chicago in 1881 and took out his final papers in 1884. Since 1914 he has been president of the Fullerton State bank.

LANDIS AWARD BODY TO CARRY ON, CHIEF SAYS

While officials of the Building Trades council and the Building Construction Employers' association were meeting yesterday to complete a new standard agreement, Thomas E. Donnelly, head of the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award, announced that the committee intended to remain as a factor in the local building industry.

The new agreement, which replaces the old one that expired last June, virtually returns all open shop building trades, except the carpenters, to their former closed shop status. Commenting on the agreement Mr. Donnelly said:

"There are about 100 general contractors and subcontractors employing 10,000 men, who desire to continue operating under the Landis award. They have organized themselves in the construction club and they have formed the Valparaiso Construction company to take over any struck work in trades which are operating now on a closed shop basis."

WORLD'S LARGEST THEATRE ORGAN

now on exhibition for a limited time at

KIMBALL'S

(Wabash Avenue Windows)

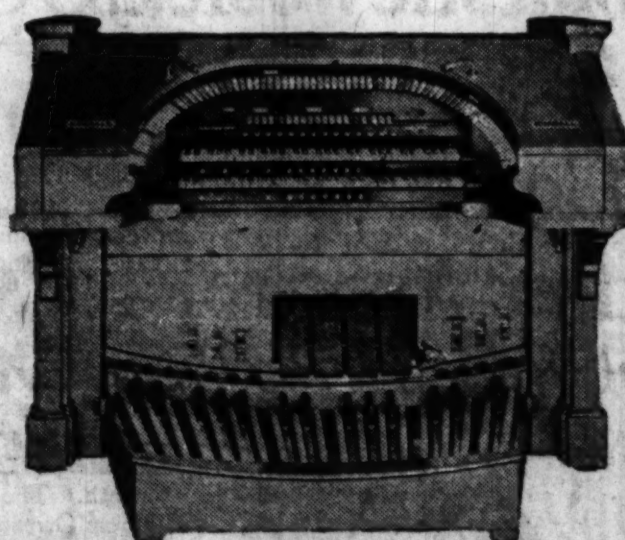

ALL ONE ORGAN — NOT THREE SEPARATE ONES

For the First Time in Organ History
Three Organists Will Play at One Time
THIS GREAT KIMBALL ORGAN
For the ROXY THEATRE, New York

Which Seats 6,200 People

Yes—three men will actually operate this mammoth instrument. The musical effects will be tremendous in their thundering volume and extremely colorful in the rare harmony that will be obtained. Never before has organ music been carried out on such a scale as this in any theatre in America or the nations of Europe. The organ proper (thousands of pipes, chimes, xylophones, etc.) will be located under the stage in specially constructed chambers which makes it possible to have the sound come right out of the orchestra pit. The three consoles pictured above will be placed in the center of the orchestra pit on elevators so that they can be raised and lowered.

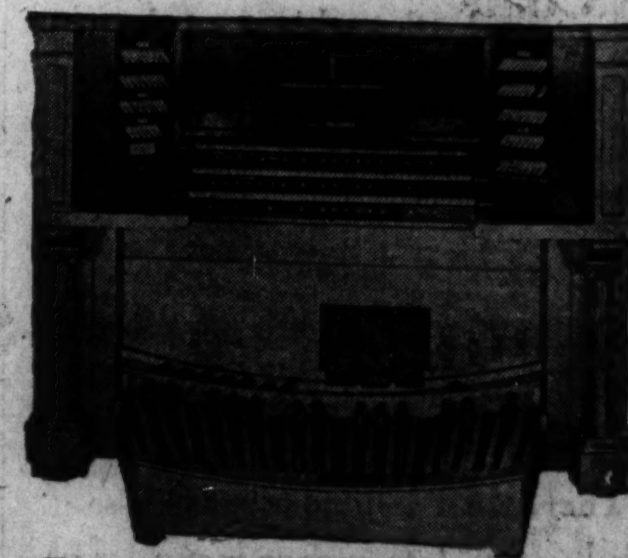

What a privilege it was for the house of Kimball to be entrusted with the building of this great organ, when it is considered that the leading organ builders of the country sought this coveted contract! There was, however, no question in the mind of Mr. S. L. Rothafel ("Roxy"), the purchaser. He realized, as do the thousands of people every year who buy Kimball Pianos and Kimball organs, that back of their purchase is a genuine Kimball value, a rare Kimball quality and an established prestige backed by a company that over a period of three generations has stood out as a leader of an unquestioned reputation.

For Roxy Theatre Broadcasting Studio
Another feature of this great theatre will be the broadcasting studio which will be equipped with a Kimball Organ and a Kimball Concert Grand Piano. They will both be used in broadcasting the famous Roxy programs.

KIMBALL PIANOS
For the Roxy Theatre

It is fitting that there should be not only Kimball organs chosen for the Roxy theatre, but also Kimball pianos, setting as they have for the past three generations the highest of standards among America's leading pianos.

For Grand Foyer in Roxy Theatre
Entertaining the thousands of people in the grand foyer will be a Kimball soloist organ playing by roll the recording of the world's master organists—here again is a special organ feature never before carried out in any theater.

JUDGES' REBUKE BRINGS QUIET AT FEDERAL BUILDING

Olsen's Typewriter Silent; The Rev. Williams Rests

Principals involved in Tuesday's judicial rebuke of the way the federal grand jury was being employed, did a little light shadow boxing yesterday in preparation for the resumption of activity next Monday.

It was said that every one concerned recalled vividly the censure from Federal Judges Carpenter, Wilkerson and Cline when those three jurists, sitting en banc, called in the grand jury and charged its members to beware of indiscretions based on "public clamor and private malice."

District Attorney Is Quiet.
District Attorney Edwin A. Olsen, who was rebuked by the judges in connection with an implication that he might be using the grand jury as a vehicle to further political ambitions and as a weapon in his quarrel, had nothing further to say.

Elmer Williams, a reformer hired for a week to read his private reports and to exhibit his album of gangster-related banquet photos to the grand jury, was said to be in semi-retirement for the day.

How Williams Met Trouble.
Attention was attracted to Williams' activities Tuesday during the judges' official onslaught, after reports had reached the court that Williams had appeared alone for several hours before the grand jury, armed with his documents and a file of a pamphlet which he publishes at intervals.

HILLMAN FOUND INCOMPETENT TO MANAGE RICHES

Edward Hillman Sr., department store founder, is now in a sanitarium under the attendance of physicians and nurses, it was revealed yesterday with the filing of a bill in the Circuit court by the First Trust and Savings bank, conservator of the Hillman properties.

The Hillman store at State and Washington streets was sold more than a year ago, the owners' ill health being the reason for the sale. Since then Mr. Hillman's condition grew worse, it was learned, and three weeks ago at a hearing Probate Judge Henry Horner took the action indicated after physicians had testified that he was suffering from a nervous breakdown. The size of the Hillman estate was revealed in the bill in which the conservator asked the permission of the court to lease the property at State and Washington streets to the F. W. Woolworth company. Exclusive of this lease the Hillman estate is worth about $1,200,000 and yields an income of approximately $87,000 a year, according to the bill filed by the law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw.

Mrs. Hillman and Edward Hillman Jr., 26 years old, the only son, are both willing and anxious to sublet the property, according to the bill.

Mr. Hillman began his career as a cash boy in the Boston store. He rose rapidly and at the age of 40 became the youngest department store owner on State street. He has been in impaired health for several years.

RACE $100,000 "LOAN" TO FALL TO OIL LEASES

Defense Fights to Keep Out Doheny's Story.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—For a menacing, dramatic moment this afternoon the stern gray eyes of the defense, the man who trailed the $100,000 which Albert B. Fall was known to have obtained from mysterious sources, surveyed the havoc he had wrought two years later and then was shown to have been a part of the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial in Justice A. A. Whiting's courtroom.

From the witness stand, the senatorial prosecutor of the Teapot Dome hearings, the man who trailed the $100,000 which Albert B. Fall was known to have obtained from mysterious sources, surveyed the havoc he had wrought two years later and then was shown to have been a part of the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial in Justice A. A. Whiting's courtroom.

Specifically, the "question at issue" in the Thanksgiving afternoon is whether the testimony which Senator

Walsh got from Edward L. Doheny as to his $100,000 loan to the former secretary of the interior could be used against Fall in a criminal case.

Senator Walsh was not asked to tell the story. The government is prepared to argue its right to read from the record of the senatorial hearings, as was done in the Forbes-Thompson criminal case in Chicago.

The defense will oppose this with all its formidable array of high priced talent. This is the first big legal hurdle, which the government must take to convict. Outside of Doheny's story, there is no evidence of the alleged bribery. Senator Walsh merely stated that Doheny had appeared before the committee January 24, 1924 at the request of his (Doheny's) attorney, Gavin McNab, and had testified.

Introduce Fall Letters.

The government during the day had built the case up to this point. Beginning with letters from Fall to the former secretary of the navy, Edwin Denby, which showed that Fall had not been in office six months before the proposed lease of the naval oil reserves on a fuel oil basis had been broached. The letters indicated Fall proposed to handle the lease himself, and the evidence showed the entrance of Doheny into the field, the contracts which he obtained, and how Fall and Doheny arranged to carry it all through by subordinates.

The transaction by which Fall acquired the $500,000 Harris ranch, adjoining his own 7,000 acres in New Mexico, was put into the record by bankers and witnesses from the home state of Fall.

Took Money in Satchel.

It was shown that all this occurred in December, 1921, a month or so after the Doheny loan, and that Fall took the money in a satchel to New Mexico, in bills of large denomination, making the payments in cash on the spot. Then came evidence of the senate investigation and rumors of the large sums that Fall had expended and the attempts on the part of Fall and Edward B. McLean to explain the possession of so much money.

Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin, former chairman of the public lands committee, testified that after the New Mexico witnesses had told their stories before the committee he and Senator Smoot went out to the Wardman Park hotel to urge Fall to tell the truth.

"Fall was in his dressing gown and a nurse was in the room," he said. "I told Fall that the committee wanted him to explain how he got the money to buy this ranch. He said it was a private matter, but he was willing to give the facts, except the name of the party."

"I stated that he owed it to the committee, the country, and himself to disclose the whole thing and the name of the man who had loaned him the money. He said he would tell it in confidence, and gave the name as that of Edward B. McLean."

Mr. McLean, newspaper owner and capitalist, was then called to the stand. He first identified a letter from Fall addressed to himself as "Dear Ned," dated Nov. 2, 1921, in which Fall urged him to go into partnership with him in buying the ranch, describing the glories of the upland country, within sight of the snow mountains, with plenty of water for pasturing the horses that he wanted McLean to raise there. Mr. McLean's reply, a refusal to go into it for financial reasons, was read into the record.

About the middle of that same month, he testified, Fall came to him in Washington and asked to borrow $100,000 on a ten day note, giving a mortgage on the ranch as security. McLean said he agreed to this and gave Fall three checks totaling this amount, which were sent back to him by Fall two or three days later uncashed, with the explanation that Fall had made arrangements to get the money from other sources.

Deviled by Friends.

On Dec. 22, he said, he went to Atlantic City to see Fall, and testified that Fall said to him:

"Would you mind saying you loaned me that $100,000 in cash? My political friends are deviling me."

McLean said he consented to this, and later, in Palm Beach, told Fall that he had been subpoenaed and would have to tell the truth under oath. Fall told him to go ahead and tell the truth, at the same time showing him a telegram which disclosed the name of Doheny as the real giver of the money.

"What did you say?" asked the government counsel.

"I said, 'I'll be damned,'" answered McLean.

COMING TO ANOTHER BREAK WITH MEXICO.

Secretary Kellogg of the state department has sent another note to Mexico. It gives the warning of President Coolidge that if Mexico takes away the property of Americans acquired before the adoption of the Mexican nationalization program in 1917 the United States will break off relations with the Mexican government. The United States recognized the Mexican government in 1923 when it was agreed by Mexico that the legal rights of Americans would be respected. They had acquired their properties under Mexican law as it was then. The right of Mexico to change its laws was not questioned but that was not the right to confiscate property of Americans.

The American state department finds after two years of negotiating and protest that it is the evident intention of the Mexican government to dispossess Americans of oil and agricultural lands valued at $1,000,000,000. Hence the warning that if this course is pursued in spite of agreement, the United States will break off relations.

In ordinary procedure Mr. Kellogg will get a reply from Mexico which, if it is in normal tone, will leave the situation just as clear as mud. Calles will instruct some pen of living fire to mix up a dash of rhetoric which will not be understandable as the native genius writes it and which will be another of life's great riddles when it has been translated. Mr. Kellogg will gather that he is invited to jump off the Washington monument and be careful to land in the syringa bushes. He will understand, if he understands anything, that the constitutional process of Mexico supercedes the President's compact of the Pilgrim Fathers, the Suffolk Resolves, the Missouri compromise, and the Eighteenth amendment and that Mexico, so far from taking anything away from legitimate American investments, is in fact giving the American Red Cross 60 pesos for use in relief of the Beards-town food sufferers. The persistent American misunderstanding of these facts and motives has been such a cause of concern and grief to Calles that he has been obliged to seek relief in making trouble for American marines in Nicaragua. So semper transiens ubi roba and gloria mundi. Mr. Kellogg may take that to Secretary Mellon and see what the treasury department will pay on it as a rebate on the 1926 taxes. If Mr. Kellogg has not already been handed the reply he may safely accept this version of it and act accordingly.

Withdrawal of American recognition may seem to be a trifling thing in Mexican life, but it has its consequences. It may also seem a feeble thing to some Americans. There are two ways in which the United States can maintain stable and satisfactory conditions in Mexico. One is the disagreeable, tough and much opposed way of taking charge and saving some Gen. Wood keep order in the country. The other is by backing a Mexican strong enough to maintain his government and fair enough not to break faith.

Since the time of Diaz the United States has not picked any winners and it has picked two or three losers. Nevertheless it has tried, without giving offense at home to apply the principle. The recognition of Obregon was along this line. That seemed to work but he went out, Calles came in and it hasn't worked with the new man.

Calles was treated to this friendly policy. He was allowed to transport his troops over American soil to get at his enemy Villa. Carranza never had any feeling of gratitude for the advantage given him to take his foe in the back and Villa withered under anger and never forgave the Americans. The United States was kicked by both of them, which is its usual luck.

Without American recognition a Mexican government is put to some disadvantages, particularly if it wants money as it generally does. An unrecognized government is always the more exposed to revolution, the revolutionists counting on the chaos of getting arms and money from Americans who may be willing to bet on a change of rulers.

Possibly the United States, deferring the policy of bringing Mexico at least to the status of Cuba, may eventually pick a winner and back him strongly enough to make him stick and make it worth his while to keep faith and also keep order. The Mexicans are like some other Latin Americans. They appeal to the world against American imperialism but they shrewdly know that it is the American restraint which gives strength to their own weakness. They know that an American government which resolved to deal point blank with them would be in such hot water at home that it would back down from its resolve.

The American good nature and sentiment oppose imperialism and hang upon the arm of government must pacifying it. The Mexicans know that. The fact that the United States is an imperialistic nation could not survive two notes to Mexico and one reply from any reasonably stout clerk in the Mexican foreign office.

THE GREAT GAME.

The Army-Navy game is attracting more interest in Chicago than any athletic contest has commanded in a generation. Probably the largest crowd ever to attend a football game will be at Soldiers' field on Saturday. Twice as many would go if they could get seats. The game is the chief topic of conversation in the community.

Ordinarily partisanship runs whither interest there is in sporting events. Thousands attend and other thousands read and talk about the contest because they want Tunny or Michigan or the Glants to win. Occasionally interest is aroused in the prowess of a particular contestant, a Susanne or a Babe Ruth. This time the interest is neither partisan nor personal. A few thousand cadets and midshipmen and a few thousand graduates of West Point and Annapolis are concerned about victory and defeat; still fewer are interested in the personalities on the field. The rest of us are going to the game out of enthusiasm for our army and navy of which we see but little in this section of the country, and especially out of pride in the men of Annapolis and West Point.

We know that the best youth of the country is enrolled at the academies. We have confidence in the training they received. We glory in the rigidity of the discipline which makes officers and gentlemen out of our boys. We hope to capture something of the Spartan spirit which animates not only the men on the two teams but the entire student corps. The Army-Navy game, we believe, comes closer than anything else in our day to reproducing the spirit of the old Olympic games. It affords an entire nation the opportunity to exult in the courage, the strength, and the skill of its best youth.

The enormous interest which the game has aroused in the middle west should be a source of satisfaction. It is a clear indication that material prosperity has not made us indifferent to the many virtues. We still prize these above all others.

A TIMELY WARNING.

Judges Carpenter, Cliffe, and Wilkerson of the federal court have performed a noteworthy public service in their caution to the present federal grand jury. We think the influence of this caution will be felt far beyond the jurisdiction of these judges and is sorely needed in the administration of justice in many districts.

It is one of the sharp and salient ironies of our day that in the name of righteousness and moral reform the impartial processes of justice are in danger as never before of being perverted to the use of private ambition and of organized intolerance. It is the high function of the courts to resist this sternly and to defend whatever liberty of the citizen our legislation has left to him. The multitude of our regulatory laws has made complete enforcement impossible and equal application virtually so. All the more necessary therefore is that which the judiciary is best able to place upon the abuse of executive power.

The situation is the more sinister that it is under pretense of moral purpose or in misguided zeal that invasions of private right and abuses of power are taking place. It is high time for warning and for resistance, for the guarantees of ordered liberty will soon be merely shadows unless those who still cherish them rally to their defense. The judiciary is the chief bulwark of these guarantees and Judges Carpenter, Wilkerson, and Cliffe have asserted their trusteeship with a firmness and dignity which every thinking citizen must be grateful for and applaud.

VISIT THE STOCK SHOW.

Take a morning, afternoon, or evening off and go down and visit the International Live Stock exposition. It opens Saturday morning, Nov. 27, lasts for a week, and is the largest, finest, and best known show of its kind in the world. The animals that leave it with ribbons and prizes are world's champions.

You will see at the stock show the very finest in animal flesh that the breeder's art can produce. You will see efficiency on four legs: Draft horses combining weight and a fast walk; smooth cattle packing the ultimate in pounds of beef; slab-sided swine for bacon, barrel-bodied swine for hams and lard; sheep for mutton, sheep for wool, sheep for both mutton and wool.

You will see $5,000,000 worth of stock. You will see one of the chief reasons for this country's greatness, for the greatness of the west, the middle west, and Chicago. You will see agricultural progress at its best. Without the animal breeder, who keeps on improving and improving, getting more out for the feed and money put in, the farmer would be less prosperous than he is and you would be poorer and wouldn't eat as well and as cheaply as you do.

RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL

(New Orleans Times-Picayune.)

This week the Great Lakes Harbor association held a convention at Buffalo, N. Y. Judging by an account of its proceedings published in this Chicago Tribune of last Wednesday, the present chief aim of the association is to block off the diversion of great lakes waters via the Chicago drainage canal. Seemingly its members are more interested in that anti-Chicago and anti-lake-to-gulf waterway undertaking than they are in proposals for restoration of the normal great lakes levels, which is probably their greatest concern.

The Times-Picayune repeatedly has warned against the danger of taking for granted the enactment of the rivers and harbors bill at the December session. The news from the Buffalo convention virtually serves notice of an organized fight to block its passage regardless of national needs and interests. Finally, the Buffalo convention, if faithfully reflected by the report from which we have quoted above, apparently cares little about the restoration of lake levels and is primarily interested in preventing the possible diversion of great lakes traffic through a lake-to-gulf waterway.

It is shown that the Chicago canal diversion at greatest accounts for only five or six inches of the lowering of lake levels, which is variously estimated at thirty-five to forty inches. It is shown that restoration of the normal levels can be effected by engineering works. Nevertheless the rival lake ports center their attack upon the five inch diversion at Chicago and oppose the rivers and harbors bill because of its provision for "connecting the great lakes and the Mississippi river system," which will be, as the New York congressman testifies, "of incalculable benefit for both." This second forwarding of an organized fight to block enactment of the rivers and harbors bill should prompt its supporters to instant and adequate preparation for its defense all along the line.

How to Keep Well.

By Dr. W.A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitation and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

PERSONAL HYGIENE FOR THE ELDERLY.

IN Maine there is a "Three-quarters of a Century club," with 1,600 members. Maine is a small state and this club is only a year old. There must be many thousands of people in the state who have lived long enough to qualify for membership. Seventy-five years of age or over is the important condition for membership.

The organization is promoted by the Maine Public Health association. At the recently held annual meeting gold medals were presented to the attendees who were over 100 years old. The golden youngsters not old enough to get medals pitched horseshoes, danced old time dances, and sang old time songs.

This is not the first organization of its kind. The "Borrowed Time club" of Oak Park, Ill., has been active for several years. When they started a minimum of seventy years was desirable. Owing to the increased span of human life the Maine society felt it necessary to raise the level to 75. There was a similar organization in Iowa a few years ago.

Stanley Hall's "Senescence" refers to similar organizations, if I remember correctly. When Stanley Hall retired from college for a few years he was the subject of the health of elderly men and women. He found physicians did not know much about the matter. Old people are generally left to shift pretty much for themselves. If they develop serious organic disease, to be sure, physicians do not neglect them. Stanley Hall referred to the minor disorders which cause so much discomfort to elderly people and to the early mild symptoms which forebode serious disorders. These he was not able to learn much about by consulting physicians. He did find about four textbooks on diseases of the aged. Some of these were informative, but they were written by physicians for physicians. There was no "How to Keep Well" literature written in simple terms for lay readers.

When he turned to the old people themselves for information he was even worse off. Some of them had plenty to tell, but it was mostly legend. Most of what he was told was wrong. What was right was of little value.

There is need for one or more books on personal hygiene for the elderly. In the meantime this "Three-quarters of a Century club" might very well devote some time to discussions of the health of elderly people. They would find that the subject would interest the members.

Old people are interested in such subjects. Why to eat, poor sleeping, leg cramps at night, night urination, bladder troubles, itching skin, cold feet, swelling of the feet, rheumatism, stiff joints, constipation, early signs of Bright's disease, heart disease, and cancer, and the signs which warn of impending apoplexy.

VISITING CONSUMPTIVES.
P. K. writes: A friend of mine contemplating visiting her brother who is in a sanatorium for consumption.

1. Is there any chance of her contracting the disease?
2. Will it be contagious for any one she comes in contact with on her return?
3. She intends to stay at a nearby hotel.

REPLY:
1. No.
2. No.

APPLES NOT FATTENING.
W. G. writes: 1. Are apples or green grapes fattening?

2. Is running and jumping rope reducing fat?
REPLY:
1. No; they contain too much water. You didn't scarcely hold enough for them to fatten you.

2. Yes. I assume you will not eat extra because of the extra work.

FEEL IN WHOOPING COUGH.
M. D. writes: 1. How many hours sleep should a person get after a whooping cough?
2. Also, covered weight and height?

3. What would you advise for whooping cough?
4. Should chest be kept warm?
5. Is there any danger of after effects?
6. Does it leave the lungs weak in any way?

REPLY:
1. Twelve hours.
2. Height 56 to 57 1/2 inches; 88 to 97 pounds.
3. Be in bed in the sunlight and open air. Control symptoms as well as you can. Keep other children away from her.

4. Yes.
5. Sometimes.

WEIGHT OF GASOLINE.

North Henderson, Ill., Nov. 25.—(To the Leg. Tribune.)—I am writing you to let you please tell me how much a gallon of gasoline weighs?

REPLY:
There is no standard weight per gallon. Gasoline weighs from 7 to 7 1/4 pounds per gallon, depending upon the quality of the fuel.

ON BROODING AT HOME.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—(To the Leg. Tribune.)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation is conducting the making of a grand jury, either or other wise in the home and allowing them to ferment in your own homes for your own use. How much can one make?

REPLY:
The prohibition enforcement officers have ruled that a household may manufacture and use a small quantity of beer by the brewer's method, but not by the fermentation of half of one per cent or more of alcohol by volume, which is the standard in fact, does not violate the law; but that the law is violated if the fermentation process is used to produce a beverage for sale.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 25, 1861.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There has been no inkling of the tone of the President's message as yet. It is hoped that it will announce some policy touching slavery. It is more than likely that the message will bring to the fore one secretary's report this topic will be discussed, viz: By Cameron from the war department, and by Chase from the financial point of view. The former will reiterate his recently expressed views regarding emancipation, and arm the Negroes, and will support them by an array of authorities. The latter will advise that slaves be freed as the armies advance and to be placed in the hands of the freed labor to go to government use, and to swell the revenue. Secretary Welles, who has employed fugitive slaves on naval vessels, cannot avoid giving the result of the experiment and suggestions for the future. It is not improbable that Secretary Smith will think himself bound as secretary of the interior, to renew his protest against Cameron's plan. Mr. Bates, who, although opposed to owning slaves, is not unfavorable to emancipation as the armies advance, has no report to write, and Mr. Blair can hardly lag on this topic in the post-office report.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A few weeks ago the secretary of war authorized Gen. Wade to ascertain whether clothing and other articles necessary to the comfort of prisoners of war could be sent to them. A letter from Maj. Gen. Benjamin Huger, commander of the Confederate department of Norfolk, in reply, says: "My government will allow blankets and articles of clothing necessary for the comfort of prisoners of war to be sent to them. Any such articles may be sent to me and will be promptly forwarded by the Southern Express company."

GREENPORT, N. Y.—The Holland submarine torpedo boat Fulton came to the surface this morning after having remained under water 15 hours. All on board were alive and well and as fresh as if they had been sealed up in the boat only a few minutes instead of 15 hours.

CHICAGO.—Physicians and women of Chicago express a measure of approval for the proposed French law making it a misdemeanor for women less than 30 years old to wear corsets. It is the opinion of the majority, however, that the law must be changed instead of legislation. Dr. E. J. Benn placed corsets and high heels on a par with the practice of bartering for money in the home.

MISS Jane Addams insisted that in communities where colleges are popular the practice of tight lacing is less of a sin than in the home. There is far less of it in the home than in the college. WASHINGTON, D. C.—There is a strong sentiment manifested among arriving congressmen favorable to the admission of Oklahoma into the union, but decidedly adverse to similar treatment for Arizona and New Mexico. If the Oklahoma people can keep their resolve out of close association with the old Spanish-American territories they may win the goal of statehood.

Dick: This happened last summer out west. We were visiting a small town and hopped a stage, bounded by two sassy looking nags in order to get back. A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SONNET FOR THANKSGIVING:

O, thankful, I, for food on table board,
Forenight of linen falling to the floor;
O, thankful, I, and humble to a Lord
A little time forgotten, sought once more.
O, thankful, I, that I have grown so tall
As to look on the world with simple eye,
That there is never day of year, I call
Not unto some far Being toward the sky.
And thankful am I for the gift of song,
Uncertain though it be as candle shine
And small as light of taper. Praise is long,
I know, and singing it, it shall be mine.
Thankful, thankful, that this hour could be Set aside for thankfulness in me.

There was a cellar filled with good things beneath the silver house and one seemed to hear the clatter of glass and the clatter of barrels of apples. ARMY MULE AND NAVY GOAT.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—There has not been much said about them, but they will be there just the same, the Army mule and the Navy goat. Of the two, the goat has much the higher social standing, for he really is a Navy goat and is specially brought on from Annapolis, while the mule is just any old mule picked up in Chicago. That goat is an important member of the team and is some goat, they say.

"I'm an authority on goats," said one mule yesterday. "Along with three other plebs I had to wash and manicure the goat for the Baltimore game two years ago. You know that is one of the plebs' privileges, one that no one is very keen about. Believe me, that goat was a swell baby when we got through with him. It took us two hours and we didn't get rid of the well known perfume of him for two months."

Whether the expression, "Getting one's goat," originated with the Army's attempt to capture the Navy mascot is not known.

SEATS FOR CHILDREN.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—I would like to hear from some one who knows if it is permissible for children of 2 and 4 years of age to occupy seats when older people are standing? Sunday evening about 9:40 p. m. my wife and I boarded a northbound Cicero avenue car (No. 431) at Lake street. Several people were standing, one an elderly lady. I noticed a couple with two children, each of the four taking up seats. I spoke to the conductor, but he said that, well, it was not right, that if he spoke to them about it he would be reported.

PROFESSIONAL UNIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—In THE TRIBUNE of Monday there appears a news item under the caption, "Physicians and Cantors Form Labor Union," and it is noted from the account that they are considered as "two professional groups." This prompts the writer to ask the correct definition of a profession or professional groups. Is a cantor a professional man just because he gets paid for singing in a Jewish synagogue, while a member of the choir of a Protestant or Catholic church is not?

Also is a doctor entitled to be called "professional" immediately upon being awarded a diploma when he continues to work for some municipal body for a salary?

On the whole, I think the Chicago Federation of Labor is contributing altogether too liberally to mob rule by giving salaries to every Tom, Dick, and Harry and thereby opening the way whereby individuals who are not proficient enough to exist on their own qualifications may be manipulated for money by a few who are worth.

the levels of the lakes and, with other factors mentioned later, has crowded record low levels on Lakes Michigan, Huron, and Erie. The rains of the summer of 1926 have, however, started the levels upward and the lakes will return to their ordinary levels if the increased rainfall continues.

Canada to Increase Diversion.
The report states that Chicago is now permitted to divert 8,500 second feet for sanitation on condition of the construction of sewage purification works costing $52,000,000, which are now 45 per cent complete. In addition, the city uses 1,200 second feet for water supply, which will be reduced by the metering Chicago has undertaken. The average total diversion has been 8,600 second feet in the last five years.

A lowering of the level of Lake Huron to the extent of more than seven inches has been caused by an increase in the discharge capacity of the St. Clair river, and for 2 1/2 inches of this lowering the dredging of gravel on the Canadian side permitted by the Canadian government is responsible.

"In order to improve the navigable liensness of the province of Ontario to dredge gravel in this contracted section," the report states.

"This survey showed an apparent removal of 2,400,000 cubic yards. The computed effect of the enlargement is 0.29 foot, and agrees reasonably closely with the observed increase in the discharge capacity during the period. The survey showed that the narrow section above the location of the dredging had contracted during the period, leaving this dredging as the only assignable cause of the increase in the discharge capacity of the river.

"From the above figures, the total enlargement of the discharge capacity of the river is taken at 0.5 foot."

Negotiate Plan of Control.

In order to prevent further lowering of lake levels by such dredging as the Canadian government has permitted, Canada and the United States are now negotiating a plan of dredging control.

"The investigations made by the board show that it is advisable to construct compensating works in the Niagara and St. Clair rivers to counteract the effect of all diversions and outlet enlargements on the levels of Lakes Michigan, Huron, and Erie," say the engineers.

These compensating works with their estimated cost would be: Dike in the Niagara river above Fort Erie, cost $700,000. Thirty-one submerged rock sills in St. Clair river, cost $2,700,000. Total, $3,400,000.

"The proposed compensating works will counteract not only the effect of diversions authorized by license by the United States and Canada, but also the effect of outlet enlargements, diversions for navigation, and diversions not covered by license. The lake levels could be restored by similar, but less extensive, works to the extent that they have been reduced by diversions authorized by license in the two countries.

HALL DEFENSE BARRAGE HITS MRS. GIBSON

Big Woman's Story Is Denied on Stand.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Hall-Mills murder trial adjourned over Thanksgiving in a chaotic legal muddle precipitated when the defense called Henry de la Bruyere Carpenter, Wall street broker and the fourth person indicted for the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, to the witness stand.

MRS. GIBSON, STATE'S STAR IN HALL TRIAL, GROWING WEAKER

Jersey City, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Mrs. Jane Gibson, who testified against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, in the Hall-Mills trial at Somerville, N. J., has lost additional strength since yesterday, according to Thomas J. Golden, secretary to Dr. George V. O'Hanlon, superintendent of the city hospital, where Mrs. Gibson is under treatment.

If she continues to grow weaker death will occur in a comparatively short time, it is feared. She takes little nourishment.

Finally won the broken an opportunity to voice his innocence of the charge against him.

Denies Big Woman's Story.

It has been testified by a witness, Mrs. Gibson, said Senator Case, "that she saw you on the Phillips farm near De Russy's lane on the night of Sept. 14, 1922. Were you there?"

"I was not," said the tall, well-groomed witness.

It was his only opportunity of the day, however. He has been in a cell at Somerville for more than two months. He came into the courtroom eagerly and chatted with his co-defendants, all cousins, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Willie Stevens and Henry Stevens. Mr. Carpenter's evident hope of publicly proclaiming his innocence was quickly blocked by legal points raised by Senator Simpson.

The decision on whether he will be permitted to continue his testimony will be made known Friday.

Recalls Woman's Testimony.

Sensor Case had prepared a groundwork for Carpenter's examination by reading the varying testimony given by Mrs. Gibson. He took the position that Mrs. Gibson, at the preliminary hearings in August, had identified Mr. Carpenter as the man she saw at the scene, "a glittering thing in his hand," a second before the shots rang out.

During the hearing three months ago, the "big woman" stepped from the stand and put her hand on a bed in the courtroom ten days ago she placed Henry Stevens "at the scene" and merely referred to Mr. Carpenter as "one of the men there."

Sensor Case referred to the fact that Mrs. Gibson had been reported close to death when she was carried into the courtroom on a stretcher to make her accusation against the three defendants.

"The cross-examination," he said

"was necessarily of the most limited character. The court will remember that I was summoned to the bench on two or three occasions, and one of the questions asked by the court was whether I wanted to have a head witness in the courtroom."

"Now it is upon that witness that the state comes in and relies for its direct evidence fastening the crime upon these three defendants. That same witness is on record as identifying Henry Carpenter as one of the four persons who were there. She is on record as saying that Henry Carpenter had something glittering in his hand and had a flashlight in his hand and then she heard a shot."

"Now is it possible under any technicalities of the law that we are not to have the opportunity of showing that an earlier story of Jane Gibson was divergent from the truth and what the state now proves? I submit that that is not consonant with justice nor with human reasoning nor with common sense."

Hit State's Case.

Previous to calling Carpenter, the defense had made telling points against the state's case. R. S. Dugan, a professor of astronomy from Princeton university, showed by scientific data that the moon had not risen on the murder night, Sept. 14, 1922, until half an hour after the time given by Mrs. Jane Gibson, alleged eyewitness to the crime. Mrs. Gibson had testified that on her second trip to the scene on her mule she had seen Mrs. Hall crying in the moonlight. The defense sought to show that it was still pitch dark at that time.

Two other blows were struck against Mr. Carpenter's testimony. Ferd David, a detective, swore that she had said four years ago that she was unable to identify any of the persons at the scene. Four persons, three of them Episcopal clergymen, swore that they had seen no scratches on Mrs. Hall's face, as state witnesses had asserted they saw. And Willie Stevens, who had withstood Senator Simpson's cross-examination on Tuesday, finished his testimony without contradiction.

Widow Breaks Down.

Other witnesses had told how Mrs. Hall had worried over the absence of her husband and how, when finally told that he had been shot to death, she had "broken down completely."

The defense admitted they planned to put Mrs. Hall on the stand Friday, but this was upset by the failure of Senator Simpson to cross-examine defense fingerprint experts who testified on Tuesday that the mark on a calling card which the state contends is the finger print of Willie Stevens, was not made by the defendant. It was said tonight that Senator Simpson might not cross-examine the defense experts at all. This seemed to leave the way open for Mrs. Hall to testify in her own defense Friday.

WINTER weather is never a safe substitute for refrigeration. Even in zero weather, indoor temperatures frequently rise above the point at which food can be kept without risk of spoiling. It is summer in the kitchen the whole year 'round. And even outdoor winter temperatures often reach the danger point.

But the temperature of Frigidaire is a safe temperature the coldest day in winter or the hottest day in summer.

Frigidaire is governed automatically by the temperature inside the cabinet. A uniform and correct temperature is preserved at all times. Foods come out of the Frigidaire cabinet as fresh, wholesome and appetizing as when you put them there.

Assure yourself of true Frigidaire performance and all the advantages of Frigidaire by making sure that the electric refrigerator you buy is a genuine Frigidaire.

"Beware of Imitations"

IF YOUR father lived in Chicago twenty-five or thirty years ago, he remembers when the boys had to go away out to "Nestor Johnson's little shop" to buy their skates. There was a touch of the exclusive in that. Nestor Johnson made every skate himself, and of course people had to wait their turn.

Nestor Johnson loved skating. He couldn't find a skate that satisfied him—so he made his own skates at his own workbench in his own little shop near Humboldt Park. He wanted to win races. He knew he couldn't have "wings on his feet" if he strapped on heavy, dragging skates made of dead metal.

With his own experience and skill to guide him, he made the first pair of tubular skates in this country. Their tubular construction made them light—and made them many times as strong as solid metal. And he made them to be attached direct to his shoes. That was an eye-opener, too.

More and more people found the way to the little shop, and Nestor Johnson employed man after man, taught him how to make skates. So the business grew and grew and the name of JOHNSON came to stand for the best and finest skates in the world.

And then what happened? The JOHNSON skate was imitated. But, because "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches," Nestor Johnson Mfg. Co. went to court to defend that good name. And they won, of course. Protecting not only their good name but safeguarding your legal rights.

There is only one JOHNSON skate

Do you know that by a decision of the Supreme Court of Illinois, it is unlawful and a fraudulent act to sell or advertise any other skate except the NESTOR JOHNSON as a JOHNSON skate?

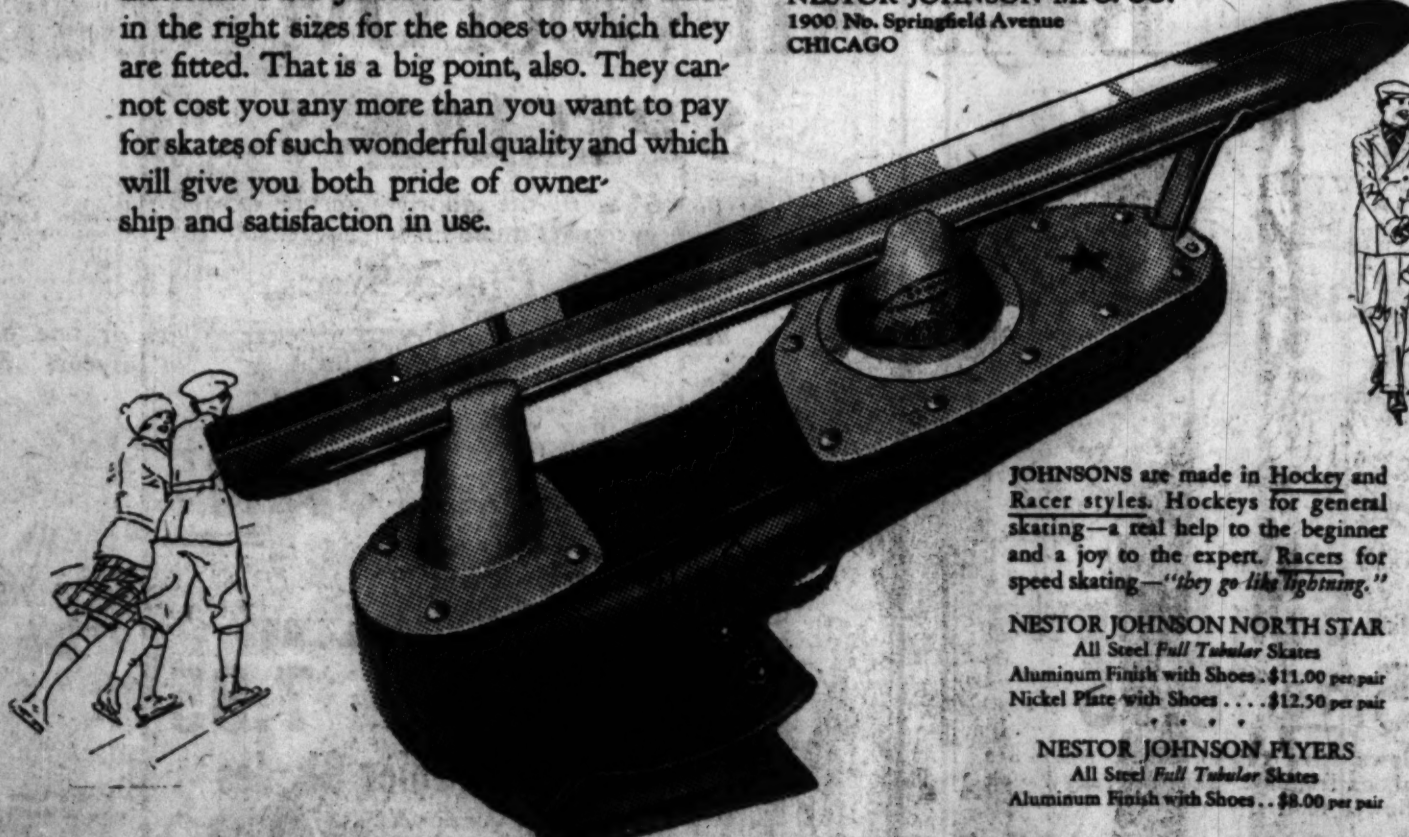

That is even more in your interest than it is in the interest of Nestor Johnson Mfg. Co. When you buy skates, just ask to see the label, and ask if you are being offered the real JOHNSON skate or an imitation.

Here is why JOHNSONS surpass, and why they are imitated: Tubular steel is live, full of vitality, light in weight, amazingly durable and strong. The result is that you glide easily and swiftly along. You forget that you are on skates, because JOHNSONS cannot drag and pull and fight your feet as will skates made of solid, dead materials. And JOHNSON skates are made in the right sizes for the shoes to which they are fitted. That is a big point, also. They cannot cost you any more than you want to pay for skates of such wonderful quality and which will give you both pride of ownership and satisfaction in use.

You wouldn't think of carrying counterfeit money in your pocket. The only way it would get there would be through your being deceived. It's the same way about skates. When it comes to skates, JOHNSONS are legal tender. Anything offered you as "just the same," "just as good," and so on, is an imitation, trading on the good name that was established thirty-five years ago in the little one-man shop near Humboldt Park.

Certainly it is to your advantage and benefit to know why the JOHNSON skate, made of tubular steel, perfectly fitted to the shoe which fits your foot, is the one skate that is light, live and long-lasting. And if you wish to protect yourself against counterfeits and imitations, look for the full name NESTOR JOHNSON.

A Raw, Sore Throat

eases quickly when you apply a little Musterole. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain and won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuritis, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds on the chest.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

CITY GIRLS FOR WHIRL OF ARMY AND NAVY EVENTS

teams. Miss Charlotte Drum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Drum of 23 Bellevue place, will present to the West Pointers a bronze mule, while Miss Jane Schuttler will present a bronze goat to a member of the Annapolis squad. Both trophies are the work of Mrs. Sylvia Shaw Judson.

The distinguished guests attending the ball will be received by the following committee: Col. Bion J. Arnold, president of the club; Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman, its vice president, and Maj. Gen. George H. Harries, its former president.

In the French room at the Drake the Army squad of 34, together with relatives and friends, will dine privately. Another military party scheduled for that night is the dinner dance to be given by the 202d coast artillery (anti-aircraft) at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Among the 400 guests there are 40 regular army officers.

Another event of Saturday evening will be the dinner of the First Division Society of Illinois at the Morrison hotel. A number of dignitaries are invited. Maj. Gen. Charles L. Summerall notified the members, however, that he would be unable to come to Chicago because he has just taken over the duties of chief of staff of the army. Other staff officers also will be unable to be present at the game because they have been notified to be ready at any moment to appear before the budget bureau in Washington, which is

Notes of the Army-Navy Game

The reception committee for the cadet-midshipman dinner dance at the Drake hotel tomorrow night will consist of George E. Martin, ranking West Point cadet and Miss Mary Hines, daughter of Commander John F. Hines, and Midshipman Commander F. B. Overfelt of Annapolis with Miss Catherine Lenthall, daughter of Brig. Gen. Michael Lenthall, in command of the 6th corps area.

The Chicago Alumni association of the Virginia Military Institute is giving a dinner Saturday evening at the Palmer House to Gen. W. H. Cocks, the institute's superintendent, and to Gen. J. R. O'Connell, superintendent of Culver Military academy.

Girls who are going to the dance at the Drake hotel tomorrow night had better brush up on these terms, in use at West Point.

A girl is a "femme."
A dance is a "hoop."
When you take a "femme" to a "hoop" you are "dragging."

When you take a girl you don't know, you are "dragging blind."

about to consider war department estimates for the coming year.

Still another party in the "grun" stag to be held in the clubrooms of William McKinley camp, United Spanish War Veterans, at 73 West Van Buren street. Advance word predicts that, in accordance with the Filipino custom, those who have won their laurels as warriors will be permitted, perhaps compelled, to wear their shirts outside their trousers.

But it is the civic side of the program in which Chicago is largely interested as a guest, rather than as a host, for it is in this connection that the men and women of Chicago will have an opportunity to see the gold braid and the mahes, the swords and Cadet Jeremiah P. Holland, son of Julia A. Holland, 3129 Lowe avenue, and brother of Assistant Corporation Counsel Eugene J. Holland, was yesterday appointed a cadet sergeant.

Soldiers' field, which Saturday will be host to the largest football crowd in history, encompasses an area of a quarter of a mile long and an eighth of a mile wide. The crest of the stadium is 100 feet above the playing field. There are 55,000 permanent seats, to which 15,000 temporary ones have been added for the game.

The West Point cadets will number 1,115. The Annapolis midshipmen 1,340.

Vice President Charles G. Dawes and Mrs. Dawes will occupy their box on the Army side of the field during the first half of the Army-Navy game. During the second half the Vice President and his wife will sit in their box on the Navy side. They will have 25 guests, half on one side, half on the other.

the fore and aft hats.

The high point in the civic schedule is the parade and dedicatory exercises tomorrow (Friday) afternoon.

Well up in the foreground of the colorful procession there will be a pageant of the flag. Men dressed to represent the soldiers of our American wars—1776, 1812, 1847, 1861, and 1898—and the world war will carry reproductions of the flags used in these conflicts.

The stadium will be open at noon. The music will start at 1 o'clock. There will be bands, two tremendous fire and drum corps, and more bands. A block of 50,000 seats have been reserved for the school children. Another block has been reserved for the women's auxiliary of the American Legion; still another for the R. O. T. C. in charge of Maj. Frank Deane and of George Stephenson.

The review of 3,000 midshipmen and cadets, and about 1,000 Chicago legionnaires is due to start at 3 p. m. After the review there will be addresses by Vice President Charles G. Dawes, Lieut. Gen. Fred E. Sterling, and Mayor William E. Dever. Commander of the American Legion Howard P. Savage will preside.

President Kelly of the south park board will then present the field, in the memory of the soldier dead of all wars, to the living soldiers.

OFFICIAL HOP PLANS

The Chicago committee to run the dance and give the dinner for cadets and midshipmen this week-end, through George I. Dickson, issued yesterday a statement.

"Young women attending the dinner dance at Drake hotel tomorrow evening should arrive at 6:45 p. m. Please be very certain to bring card which was inclosed with invitation," the statement said. "Admittance will be by this card only."

At 11:30 p. m. bus transportation will be provided between the Drake and the Oriental and Chicago theaters. Young women who attend dinner dance may go to theater, if they so desire. Tickets which admit to either theater will be issued to guests at the dinner dance.

The committee has provided for chaperonage at the Drake and at the theater.

"In bringing this group together from great distances," the committee added, "it is manifestly impossible for the committee to control or to enter into the plans of individuals for getting to or from the party, and it is respectfully suggested that these plans be worked out by individuals, as the committee's function ceases when the theater is over."

A limited number of tickets for the visitors gallery at the Drake has been provided for cadets and midshipmen, to be issued by them to their immediate families.

"Restricted space makes it impossible for any others to be admitted," the committee explained.

11 NOTABLE GUESTS

At the Army-Navy game Saturday where every other spectator is likely to be in "Who's Who," there will be eleven supercelebrities, officially recognized by the mayor's committee. Each one has been assigned a Chicagoan as host. Here is the list:

DWIGHT F. DAVIS, secretary of war, official guest of Olive Runnels. MAJ. GEN. JOSE L. KETCHUM, guest of Keweenaw L. Ames Jr.

REAR ADMIRAL WILLIAM A. ROBERTS, guest of Lee Hammond. GUYER D. WILBERT, secretary of the navy, guest of Edward A. Cusack Jr.

MAJ. GEN. ROBERT C. DAVIS, adjutant general of the army, guest of Lawrence Whiting. REAR ADMIRAL W. E. SPOONER, guest of Hubert Burham. THEODORE D. ROBINSON, assistant secretary of the navy, guest of Col. Henry A. Allen.

ALBERT C. RITCHIE, governor of Maryland, guest of A. J. Horan. BRIG. GEN. HERSCHEL B. SEW-ART, superintendent of West Point, guest of R. E. Sany.

REAR ADMIRAL LOUIS E. FULTON, superintendent of Annapolis, guest of Edward J. Kelly. Gov. Al Smith of New York sent word last night that he would be unable to attend the game, but Mayor Walker will be here.

WOULD MOVE ACADEMY

A proposal to transfer the United States Military academy from the east to a location on Lake Michigan gained official support yesterday in a resolution unanimously adopted by the city council.

"It is time the middle west, as a part of the United States, be given recognition," declared Ald. D. S. McKinlay (19th), author of the resolution, "and there would be no better way than to give us one of the academies."

Ald. McKinlay explained that the immediate occasion of his action was the unfair division of tickets to the game.

"Year after year the east has had this game," he declared. "And now, at our first opportunity to see it, we are allowed only 40,000 of the poorest seats, while 60,000 choice seats go to the privileged easterners."

The resolution was introduced by Ald. McKinlay and was adopted by a vote of 10 to 2. The two dissenting votes were cast by Ald. D. S. McKinlay and Ald. J. J. Connelley.

The resolution provides that the city council should request the federal government to consider the transfer of the academy to a location on Lake Michigan.

The resolution also provides that the city council should request the federal government to consider the transfer of the academy to a location on Lake Michigan.

REPORT HOFFMAN WILL GIVE UP JOB TO L. A. BRUNDAGE

Politicians Hear Board Is to Name New Sheriff.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Political circles buzzed with the rumor yesterday that Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman will resign shortly after Christmas and that the new Republican controlled county board will appoint Leonard A. Brundage as sheriff until a successor is named at a special election.

Hoffman will remain in the sheriff's office after Dec. 31, owing to the death of Sheriff Elect E. J. Carr. Several conflicting opinions have been advanced as to the method and time of selecting a new sheriff, but on some points most of the authorities seem now to agree. They are:

1. That under the constitution a sheriff remains in office until his successor is qualified.

2. That under state statutes the county board may declare a county office vacant if the person elected to the office fails to qualify within 20 days after the time prescribed by law to assume the office.

3. That having declared a vacancy the county board must call a special election, Hoffman, under the constitutional provision, remaining in office pending the election unless he resigns, in which event the board may fill the vacancy temporarily by appointment until the special election is held.

As to the time of holding a special election opinions conflict, some contending that the judicial election next June is a general election and others that it will be in November, 1927.

If the latter view holds, Hoffman, if he does not resign, or Brundage if he is appointed, would be sheriff for two years.

Sheriff Mourns Report.
Sheriff Hoffman himself has given no indication that he intends to resign and Brundage professed to know nothing about such an understanding, but the gossip persisted in quarters where such talk is significant.

Mr. Brundage is a brother of former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage and at present is an assistant state's attorney. Although headed by a Democratic president, A. J. Cermak, who was reflected, the county board is Republican by 11 to 4 on a party slatup.

COUNTY JAIL COSTS

It costs the taxpayers $1.94 a day for the keep of each county jail prisoner, according to a report submitted yesterday by E. J. Fogarty, the warden, to Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman. To maintain the prisoners from Dec. 1, 1925, to the end of this month it will have cost

COOLIDGES TO SPEND THANKSGIVING IN OLD NEW ENGLAND STYLE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—With President Coolidge setting the example, Washington will observe a quiet Thanksgiving day tomorrow. At the White House the day will be observed in the old fashioned New England manner, except for the usual reunion that marks Thanksgiving day in that part of the country.

In the morning the President and his wife will go to church, and in the afternoon he will probably work for a time on his annual message to congress, while Mrs. Coolidge attends a matinee at one of the local theaters. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock.

Departing from their usual custom of attending Congregational church services, the President and Mrs. Coolidge will attend special union services at the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal church. Services will be held under the auspices of the Methodist churches of this city and Bishop William F. McDowell will deliver the service. Virtually all members of the cabinet now in the city will attend.

the county $312,171.59 for 297,475 days' board and maintenance.

Warden Fogarty, who for years was head of the Indiana state prison, has made a survey of the cost of maintenance so that he might figure on improvements in the new jail now being erected.

The county loses money by boarding federal government prisoners, according to the warden's report. The government pays the county 55 cents per day for the keep of its prisoners.

Board May Declare Vacancy.
That under state statutes the county board may declare a county office vacant if the person elected to the office fails to qualify within 20 days after the time prescribed by law to assume the office.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded, if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FOREIGN OWNED OIL SHOWDOWN NEAR IN MEXICO

Companies Fighting Law
Face Land Seizure.

(Copyright, 1928, By The Chicago Tribune.) Mexico City, Nov. 23.—Unless the foreign oil companies manifest their willingness to apply for concessions before Dec. 31 their lands will be thrown open to denouncement under the Mexican laws to which the United States has objected. They will have either to comply with the law or let somebody else do it. A showdown between them and the Mexican government is in sight.

A meeting of representatives of the American oil companies operating in Mexico will be held this week to decide what steps are to be taken.

With publication of the diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Mexico over the oil and alien land laws revealing the two governments deadlocked and the solution of the problems as far distant, apparently, as ever, the oil companies are at their wits' ends to save their immense holdings.

Some Companies Bow to Mexico.

The oil companies originally had agreed to stand pat and to leave the settlement of their dispute with the Mexican government to the state department in Washington. However, at the prospect of losing their lands, half a dozen of the larger companies have broken away from the combination and have put in their applications for concessions as required by the new law. An eleventh hour rush to get aboard the band wagon is looked for.

The Huasteca Oil company heads the list of holdouts. This is the largest American oil company in Mexico. It formerly was controlled by Edward Doheny. It now is a Standard Oil subsidiary.

Will Make Final Fight.

Huasteca has made no application for concessions. It will fight to a finish to keep the lands. It has acquired in fee simple prior to the enactment of the 1917 constitution, when the present Mexican regulations went into effect.

The Transcontinental Oil company, related to the Huasteca through the Standard Oil company, has, however, put in applications for concessions on lands acquired since 1917.

Other companies conforming to the law are the East Coast Oil company, subsidiary of the Sinclair interests, the Texas company, and El Aguila, subsidiary of the Royal Dutch Shell and the largest British company operating in Mexico.

Attack U. S. by Radio.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 24.—The Mexican government controlled Ariel news service today broadcast in Central America a long message advocating Latin-American unity, attacking the United States, and intimating that Mexico has as much right as the United States to intervene in Nicaragua.

The word "Ariel" is taken from a book by José Enrique Rodó, a Mexican, which favors Latin-American unity and condemns the United States.

The Mexican government has already donated radio stations to Guatemala, Salvador, Costa Rica, and Honduras. Only Nicaragua refused, and Central Americans are receiving news broadcast free from Mexico.

Most Guatemalan news is Mexican. The Tribune learns from prominent Mexicans that President Calles is following Carranza's policy in the south, pleading for unity and independence of the United States and the Monroe doctrine, fearing Mexico is menaced by American influence at the Panama canal, Cuba, Porto Rico, Haiti, the Virgin Islands, the Nicaragua Fonseca naval base, and the Cien Islands.

Three Senators Doubt Any Break.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Sharp issue with the state department's interpretation of the Mexican land law was taken today by Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, and other senators, who declared they found nothing in a study of the correspondence made public by the department yesterday to warrant a rupture of diplomatic relations with Mexico.

Sensors Norris (Rep., Neb.), and Foss (Rep., Ohio), are of the opinion that the state department is unduly alarmed, that the controversy has not reached a critical state, and that nothing would be gained in the way of protection of American property interests in Mexico by an open break, involving withdrawal of recognition from the Calles government.

"I do not think there is going to be any break with Mexico, I hope not. A break would not help matters in the least. Mexico is seeking to work out certain property problems, to change the nature of property, as it were, in Mexico. And the state department is seeking, while this process is going on, to protect the property rights of American citizens."

"There is a difference of view between the governments as to the effect of Mexico's constitution and laws upon property of Americans. But I do not find in the notes any threat of an ultimatum. Mexico, of course, has a right to have any kind of property system she wants. Our sole interest is in the fact that Americans have acquired property and if Mexico finds a way to reasonably protect our interests, we will have no complaint. And I think Mexico will find a way."

"There is a difference of view between the governments as to the effect of Mexico's constitution and laws upon property of Americans. But I do not find in the notes any threat of an ultimatum. Mexico, of course, has a right to have any kind of property system she wants. Our sole interest is in the fact that Americans have acquired property and if Mexico finds a way to reasonably protect our interests, we will have no complaint. And I think Mexico will find a way."

"I do not think there is going to be any break with Mexico, I hope not. A break would not help matters in the least. Mexico is seeking to work out certain property problems, to change the nature of property, as it were, in Mexico. And the state department is seeking, while this process is going on, to protect the property rights of American citizens."

MAKES PACT FOR NEW CLEARING DISTRICT PARK

Council Group O. K.'s Site
Covering 160 Acres.

Creation of a new public park for the city was assured yesterday when the city council parks committee accepted an offer of the board of education to lease the site bounded by Congress and Cicero avenues on the east, and 19th and 23 streets on the north and south.

The new 160-acre park, adjacent to the city's largest aviation field, has been sought for years by residents of the Clearing industrial district.

It is the only available open space in the area. The nearest parks are McKinley, four miles northeast and Washington, three miles southwest.

City Planner O. K. H. H. "We feel that the acquisition of the land by the city is of the highest importance," Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the Chicago Plan commission, declared.

Credit for the agreement reached yesterday goes largely to Corporation Counsel Bush and to Ald. Thomas F. Ryan (15th), who have been busy with the project for several months.

The deal was made through a proposal by the city to pay the expense of a new sewer in Cicero avenue in exchange for the lease of the land from the school board at $1 a year.

Big Tract of School Land
The new park forms the northeast corner of an entire section owned by the board of education. The south half is the flying field and the northwest corner is divided equally between the Laramie Golf club grounds and the site for a proposed new junior high school.

EXPERTS NEVER
PRESENTED BILLS,
WITNESS SAYS

David Clark, former member of the board of Local Improvements, testified yesterday before Judge Hugo M. Bond that the contractors and bills of the real estate experts in 1920 were never presented to the board for its approval, so far as he knew. He first learned of the contracts through the press, he said.

The Tribune is using the experts as a taxpayer seeking to recover an exorbitant fee amounting to $1,000. The experts are Edward C. Waller, Ernest H. Lyons and Arthur S. Merigold.

Clark said that Michael J. Faherty, former chairman of the board of local improvements, had complete charge of all the work being done on the five city street improvements on which the experts worked.

COUPLE DISAGREE ON EVERYTHING; BATTLE IN COURT

Unable to agree, even on the date of their marriage, Fred A. Forbes, former owner of the E. M. Forbes Cartage company, and Mrs. Alvina P. Forbes, 324 Abbotford road, Kenilworth, yesterday battled charges back and forth at each other in Judge Oscar Hebel's court. Finally a compromise was reached and an agreement made out of court will be submitted to the judge Monday.

Mrs. Forbes sought a decree of separate maintenance, charging cruelty. Forbes asked a divorce, also charging cruelty. The wife said they were married in 1919 and that her husband had often struck her. He said they were married in 1921 and declared: "She lashed me with a dog whip. She kicked me in the shins with her French heels. She threw a vase at me. She broke my glasses. She came to my office and bit me with a ledger book. Finally a compromise was reached and an agreement made out of

GRAHAM BANK FAILURE CASE IS DISMISSED

Indictments Stricken Off at Crowe's Request.

The names of Ralph K. and Frank Z. Graham, sons of the late Andrew Graham, founder of Graham and Sons' private bank and one time candidate for mayor, were stricken from the criminal court docket yesterday. This is the first time since the failure of the Graham bank in 1917 that they have not been under indictment.

The state's attorney's office asked leave of Judge Emanuel Eiler to enter orders of nolle prosequi in the three indictments charging the Grahams with receiving deposits while insolvent. The motion was allowed and the case, which has been continued hundreds of times in various criminal courts, was erased from the records.

A Sensational Failure.
The Graham bank failure created a sensation at the time, the institution being one of the largest private banks in the state. It was estimated at that time that its liabilities exceeded its assets by $1,000,000.

The bank failed soon after the death of the elder Graham, who had turned over the control of the institution to his sons. At the time it was said that had the elder Graham lived he would have been able to dispose of many of the bank's non-liquid assets and thus have saved the depositors from loss.

Since the failure, however, dividends have been paid from time to time and it is estimated that more than 50 per cent has been returned to depositors.

Crowe Explains Action.
"The case was tried once in my court by MacLay Hoyne, then state's attorney, and the jury disagreed," said State's Attorney Crowe in explaining his action. "Had a conviction been obtained at that time it would have been my duty to have set it aside. The Grahams turned over everything they had for the benefit of the depositors and to start trial of the case again would only be a waste of the county's funds."

WIDOW SAVED BY PULMONATOR.
The life of Mrs. Elizabeth Mole, 68, a widow, of 1418 East 4th street, was saved yesterday by a pulmotor after she had accidentally been overcome by gas in her home.

CHEMIST TO HUNT DEATH CAUSE IN BLOCK MYSTERY

Coroner Oscar Wolf late yesterday ordered a chemical analysis of the vital organs of Oscar Block, 55 years old, head of the drug company bearing his name at 108 West Lake street, to determine whether the merchant was drowned or whether he died in some other manner.

Mr. Block's body was found in the lake off Loyola avenue early yesterday. That he had not been robbed was indicated by the fact that he carried on his person $48.50 and stock certificates in his own company worth $20,000.

Relatives who testified at the inquest would not believe Mr. Block committed suicide. Mrs. Julie Martin, his sister-in-law, with whom he had lived for years at 1709 Wallen avenue, said he left home Tuesday evening to go and play cards and that he was in excellent spirits.

Police were assisting the coroner's office in an investigation under the possibility that Mr. Block may have been murdered.

THREE HELD FOR AUTO THEFT.
Joseph Parker, 10 years old; Robert Omochi, 21, and Joseph Astoria, 28, were held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $11,500 each. They are charged with stealing an automobile and robbing an attendant of a garage.

Democrats Fail to Agree on Sanitary Board Head

The five Democrats who take over control of the sanitary district next month failed to agree yesterday on this presidency and George E. Brennan, the party boss, made no decision for them. It is understood that the three Democratic holdover trustees—T. J. Crowe, James A. Whalen and Michael Rosenberg—are all angling amicably for the presidency and are still holding out.

Dies at Wheel of Auto;
Daughter Averts Crash

Alva McDonald, 61, of 4323 McLean avenue, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the steering wheel of his automobile. He was driving along the Northwest highway with his daughter, Mrs. Adolph Miller of Park Ridge, when he collapsed. Mrs. Miller stopped the car after it had climbed over a curbstone. Dr. Thomas E. Connelly of Park Ridge said heart disease was the cause of death.

VOTING IN ELLER PRECINCT UNDER FIRE AT CANVASS

107 Democratic Ballots
Ignored, Check Shows.

What happened in one precinct of the Twentieth ward, the home of Morley Eller, sanitary district trustee defeated for reelection on Nov. 2, was told yesterday at a hearing before the canvassing board of the election commissioners by Joseph P. Dolan, a Democratic judge.

The board ordered judges and clerks in this precinct questioned because they were curious to know why Eller, Republican, received 561 votes out of 644 votes cast. It hardly seemed possible, those watching the canvass argued, that there had not been one straight Democratic ticket cast.

Find 107 Democrat Ballots.

It was learned that 107 straight Democratic ballots had been voted. That cleared up one puzzle, but Attorney Henry Berger, representing Morley J. O'Brien, Democratic candidate for county treasurer, who received only 114 votes in the precinct to 554 votes for George P. Harding, his Republican opponent, investigated further.

"Do you think there were any illegal votes in that precinct?" he asked Dolan.

Says 200 Floated Voted.

"I estimate 200 floaters voted," said Dolan. "There were some registered from empty flats at 1402 and 1430 South Halsted street. Forty-six colored voters were registered from three rooms at 70 and 727 Barker street."

Dolan also declared that the husband of Mrs. T. Wortman, one of the judges, acted in an official capacity all day, helping voters mark ballots.

WIDOW AWARDED $194,000 IN SUIT AGAINST I. A. C.

Jury Decides for Mrs.
C. H. Genslinger.

A verdict of $194,000 damages was awarded Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Genslinger, widow of the late Charles Henry Genslinger, well-known Chicagoan, by a jury in Circuit Judge David M. Broderick's court yesterday.

Sues I. A. C. for $300,000.

Mrs. Genslinger had sued the Illinois Athletic club for $300,000, declaring that the club owed her husband that much for services he rendered in organizing the club twenty years ago. The jury was out three hours, finally deciding that Mrs. Genslinger was entitled to approximately two-thirds of the amount she asked. Mrs. Genslinger is now living in Los Angeles.

Genslinger, according to testimony, helped organize the club, together with William Hale Thompson and other men, well known in Chicago. He acted as secretary of the club, and was to collect a commission and a bonus of 1,000 memberships if the membership reached a certain number, according to the widow.

Memberships Canceled.

Genslinger was given the memberships, but soon after he was removed as secretary. In 1919 the memberships were canceled by order of the board of governors of the club because, it was said, Genslinger had defaulted in payment on the dues. Genslinger died in 1920. His widow brought suit for the value of the memberships, selling their worth at $200 each.

Woman Fined for Alleged Fraud in Buying Clothing

Mrs. Mary Stapleton, 625 West 61st place, was fined $10 and placed on probation for one year yesterday when she was arraigned in the Grand Crossing court. She was charged with purchasing garments from a south side store from a clerk who is alleged to have underpaid them. The clerk, Floyd Strietler, 464 West 64th street, did not appear. His 2 being sought.

11,500 ANIMALS DUE TODAY FOR LIVE STOCK SHOW

Judging Contest to Open
Exposition Saturday.

A barayard Thanksgiving dinner will today be served in city style to the 11,500 cattle, hogs, sheep, and horses assembled for the International Live Stock exposition, which opens tomorrow at the Union Stock yards. The unloading of live stock will continue until late tonight, when practically all the animal exhibits will be penned and stalled ready for the official opening of the show Saturday morning.

More than 100 college men and women will walk into the ring with their score cards Saturday morning to compete for the highest score in the intercollegiate student's live stock judging contest. The non-collegiate contest boys and girls will be held tomorrow.

Stock Stockyards Trophy.
Miss Ella M. Baker will be one of the quietest representing the Massachusetts Agricultural college in Saturday's contest. The Union Stock yards trophy, which must be won three times to be retained, is the chief award in the student's judging contest.

Texas, Purdue, and Nebraska each have two legs on the cup and will have teams in this year's contest. Twenty-two colleges will compete. The Truman company will award five scholarships of $250 each to the teams making the best showing. Fifteen similar scholarships will be awarded by this company to colleges competing in other international events.

Twelve hundred farm boys and girls from forty states will compete in the various events of the show. Each state has nominated a boy and a girl to compete in the national health contest held as a feature of the international events.

Wheat Contest Is On.
Debates already have started over the friendly wheat championship contest between growers of Canada and the United States which is to be held at the eighth hay and grain show in the International amphitheater.

O. W. Lehmann of Chicago will be the largest individual exhibitor at this year's eighth horse show. He has fifteen horses nominated in the saddle, harness, and hunter classes. Emil Demmer, 2846 Ogden avenue, is another one of the big individual exhibitors, having a string of ten horses.

"Big Parade" to Make Bow.
"Big Parade," the star of the Denmark stable, will make his first appearance in the big arena Saturday evening, the opening night of the show. Glen Digney of the Chicago Riding academy will ride this Kentucky blue grass product which has made a good showing at smaller shows this season.

"Big Parade" will be shown in the sale class with his mate, Cadillac Star, from the Denmark stable.

CHICAGO CROOK SEIZED AS MAIL ROBBER OF 1921

Joe Bertache, an expert Chicago safeblower whose police record goes back to 1921 when he served a term in the Western penitentiary of Pennsylvania, was arrested yesterday by Postoffice Inspector K. P. Aldrich in connection with a $100,000 mail robbery at Cincinnati in 1921.

Bertache has been a fugitive since his indictment in 1923, although police and government inspectors, are said frequently to have come across his technique in his jobs pulled since the Cincinnati crime.

Following the capture of Bertache it was announced that Joe Blue, Bertache's pal in most of his major exploits, was under arrest in Troy, N. Y., in connection with the Cincinnati job.

Bertache is a brother of Barney Bertache, erstwhile master confidence man in the clairvoyant and wiretapping divisions.

Joe Bertache was arraigned before United States Commissioner James R. Glavin pending proceedings to remove him to Cincinnati. His bonds were set at $15,000 and his hearing set for Dec. 6.

LAWYERS CLASH OVER CROISSANT FLORIDA TITLES

Hearings of G. Frank Croissant before the real estate commission of the state department of registration were adjourned yesterday until Dec. 6.

A short session yesterday morning was devoted to arguments over the refusal of Croissant's attorney, Berthold Cronson, to make public the nature of his client's title to the Boca Raton, Florida, development.

Attorney Murdock also demanded the history of Croissant's title, another of Croissant's Florida developments.

Cronson, when that demand was made, jumped to his feet and shouted, "We will give those files to the commission and to no one else."

HUSBAND ASSERTS MARRIAGE MEANT ONLY TRAIN RIDE

Marriage meant nothing but free transportation to Chicago to Mrs. Emma S. Gurle, 19 years old, 4145 Lake Park avenue, according to her husband, Andrew Gurle, 24 years old, 4044 Ogden avenue, who filed suit for divorce yesterday.

Gurle charged that his wife had based so much about the delights of the big city that when he met her in her home town, Bensenville, Ill., she married him gladly.

He found this out later, he charged, after she had accompanied him to the city. She left him, leaving a polite note in which she thanked him for the ride, admitted she had been unfair to him, and expressed the hope that he wouldn't feel too bad about having his honeymoon cut short.

The commission may renew its desire to see similar papers when hearings are resumed in December. Croissant, however, has declared that if that is insisted upon he would withdraw his appeal for a state license to deal in real estate. It is on that appeal the present hearing is based.

Attorney Murdock also demanded the history of Croissant's title, another of Croissant's Florida developments.

Cronson, when that demand was made, jumped to his feet and shouted, "We will give those files to the commission and to no one else."

By FRANK SCHREIBER.

The Detroit Cougars fought their way to a 1 to 0 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks in the National Professional Hockey league match last night at the Olympia rink, drawing a single goal out of a hot scrimmage in the final five minutes of play. The defeat, witnessed by about 1,500 fans, sent the Hawks tumbling from the leadership of the league to fourth place.

Until the Cougars gained their goal, the Hawks, led by Fredrickson, had battled the Detroiters to a standstill, halting every rush and making change after change on the visitors' net. But the superior passing displayed by the Detroit team in the final period finally broke through the Chicago defense men, and when Hobie Blum, drove up the rink with the puck, Frank Frederickson came down on the opposite side and crossed over in front of the Chicago goal in time to take Kitchens' pass and score the only point of the contest.

Cougars Excel in Passing. For the first two periods it was nip and tuck between the teams, with both forward lines taking turns in charging up the rink. Detroit seemed to have the better of the shelling and displayed a superior passing attack, but Chicago's defense was better. In the first period Detroit had a fine opening, but Kitchens missed a pass in front of the Hawks' net and Capt. Dick Levin of the local set got the puck away from the danger zone.

The second period was hard played and well sprinkled with penalties. Three times Detroit had players in the penalty box, while two Chicago men were ruled off the ice for short rests. One Detroit had two men in the "outlaw" box, but the remaining four Detroiters maintained a strong guard over their goal and repelled the Chicago forwards.

With the start of the third period Detroit flashed its best scoring combination, while the Blackhawks seemed to tire and remained on defense. The Cougars outskated the Chicago team in this period and finally got their best man passing game under way and swept down the ice. Then Frederickson shot his goal and the Detroit team backed away to put up their best defense to protect their slim margin.

With only five minutes to play and one goal behind, the Blackhawks tried hard to even the count, but couldn't break away. The Chicagoans probably made their biggest mistake of the game at this point in not rushing all five players down the ice in an attempt to score. Manager Pete Muldon of the team thought for a five man attack, but the players held to their three man forward line, with two defense men playing back of the center ice.

Referee Commissioner K. M. Landis was among the spectators, being the guest of Charley Hughes, a former Chicagoan, who owns an interest in the Detroit team. Lineup: CHICAGO (G). Detroit (11). Goal. Left defense. Right defense. Center. Left wing. Right wing. Forward. Coach. Detroit—Henderson, Fredrickson, Shepard, Gordon, Lang. PENALTIES. 1,500,000 FANS ATTEND BIG TEN FOOTBALL GAMES

Many Records Shattered During Season.

Western conference football broke all records for attendance and gate receipts during the season just closed, according to figures given out by athletic directors of the Big Ten schools. Nearly a million and a half spectators attended the games and the receipts for the season were more than $2,500,000.

University of Michigan helped to hang up two records. The Wolverines eleven played to 350,000 spectators at home and abroad, which set a new Big Ten mark and the Ohio State-Michigan game drew 24,000 fans, which is the largest paid attendance ever at a football game. This record will likely be shattered Saturday as more than 100,000 tickets have been sold for the Army-Navy game on Soldiers' field.

Lossing Maroons Lead. University of Chicago's Maroons did not win a conference game, but played six games at home and made the pace for the Big Ten home attendance and receipts for the season. The Maroons played before 225,000 fans, who paid $1,100,000 for their tickets.

University of Illinois was next with 225,000 attendance and gate receipts of $400,000.

Michigan and Ohio State had the largest single gate of the season, $170,000.

New Stadiums Help. New stadiums at Northwestern, Minnesota, and Chicago helped to raise the attendance records at these schools. Next year Michigan will be able to handle larger crowds and undoubtedly will make new attendance marks. Northwestern's stadium also will be enlarged before the 1927 grid season opens.

The attendance figures and gate receipts follow:

Team	Attendance	Total	Largest
Chicago	225,000	$1,100,000	48,000
Illinois	225,000	400,000	85,000
Michigan	195,000	300,000	48,000
Ohio	155,000	240,000	84,000
Northwestern	175,000	325,000	44,000
Minnesota	155,845	286,000	58,000
Wisconsin	125,000	180,000	40,000
Iowa	45,000	100,000	24,000
Indiana	20,585	15,847	7,500
Totals	1,400,667	$2,534,197

In some cases the above figures are approximate, as the exact check was not available.

STAGG WILL TAKE MAROON SQUAD TO ARMY-NAVY TILT

Coch A. A. Stagg planned a surprise party for his football team yesterday, giving them the assurance that every man on the Maroon team played in a game this fall would be given a ticket for the Army-Navy game at Soldiers' field Saturday.

The team will attend the game in a body.

De Oro Increases Lead Over Hops in Ice Play

New York, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—By the night block, 42 to 45, in 48 minutes, Alfredo De Oro, former champion, increased his lead over Willie Hops in a game this fall would be given a ticket for the Army-Navy game at Soldiers' field Saturday.

The team will attend the game in a body.

FANS UP IN AIR ON WINNER OF ARMY-NAVY GAME

Both Elevens Ready for Terrific Struggle.

Foxy Mascots

THE army mule and the navy goat, being soldiers for details, will wear the regulation colors of the two service schools when they parade on Soldiers' field Saturday before the big triple battle. The navy mascot will be covered with a blanket of blue, the same shade as a goat's pants. The lettering is in gold. The mule has a chance to be a bit more ornamental as he can robe himself in a gray blanket with black border and large letters in gold.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

With the arrival today of the Army and Navy football teams which meet in annual struggle on Soldiers' field Saturday, interest in the great game will reach a climax with fans more in doubt than ever as the probable victor.

These elevens, coached to the heights of gridiron efficiency by men who know the game, will spend the remaining time polishing off formations. Each will take a workout in the stadium, giving passers and kickers a chance to acquaint themselves with wind currents and other conditions.

Members of both squads know how much depends upon the result. They know that in every corner of the globe where the Stars and Stripes are unfurled, the result will be awaited with interest. The warriors will need no keeping up. They will trot out on the gridiron determined to play nearly super-football.

Shapley the Big Gun.

If Shapley starts the game at quarter back for the Navy, the Middles may elect to try to beat the Army through the air. Shapley is the big gun of the Middles and one of the best triple threat players in the east. He is clever faking his runs and passes, while his punting should be the equal of that of the Army booters.

If the Army line proves too strong, the Navy certainly will resort to the air game with forward passing and punting the dominant factors. Anything may happen when the ball is thrown and kicked. Players are put on so easily that either team may take advantage of the break which results from such a style of play.

The Army should employ a slashing offense with Wilson carrying the ball off his right tackle and Murrell driving ahead at the Navy line.

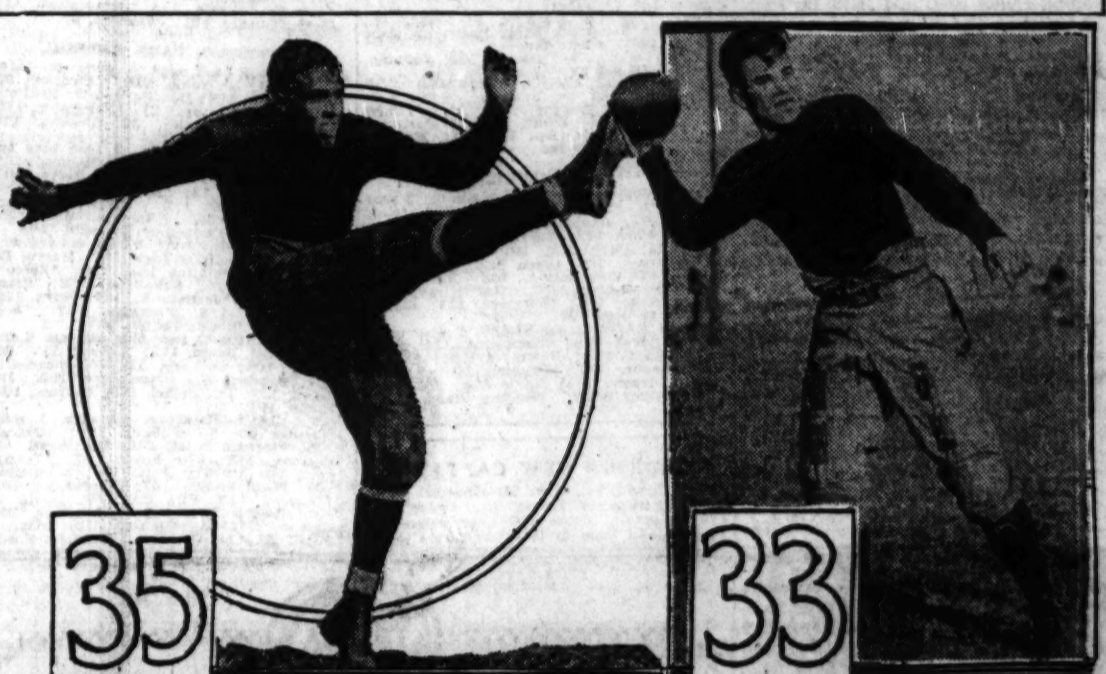

The Cadets use a backfield shift and plays are sent both to the strong and weak sides. Wilson, the former Penn State player, is a strong runner when carrying the ball on the shifts, and he is also a splendid blocker.

Harding, a clever ball handler, will likely start at quarter back for the Navy. He performed brilliantly against Notre Dame. He handled punts faultlessly and will be on the tossing and receiving ends of forward passes in the game here.

Powerful Running Attack.

Trappell, the fleet Army back injured early in the season, will be ready for service. Cagle will also play in part of the game. This backfield has powerful running attack. The line affords the necessary protection and the forwards are ever mindful to break through to take off members of the secondary defense. Coach Jones may also have a running forward pass of offense and some of his passes may be thrown from punt formation.

THEY'LL FIRE THE NAVY GUNS

Fleet Navy back field which will try to elude Army defense in struggle at Soldiers' field Saturday. No. 33 is Big Tom Hamilton, full back; No. 35, A. Shapley, quarter back and a triple threat man; No. 26, J. B. Schuber, another quarter back; No. 15, H. H. Caldwell, half back, and No. 25, E. A. Hannegan, half back.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Hamilton as a ball carrier and can drop kick and punt effectively.

H. H. Caldwell, a Californian, who plays the other half, is the lad who had a good time in the battle in which Michigan went under by 10 to 6. He rammed the Wolverine line consistently and topped his afternoon's exploits with the first touchdown registered against the Footmen in two years.

In the first play from scrimmage against Georgetown he wrapped his arm around the ball and shot over right tackle for a forty-five yard run to a touchdown. Caldwell weighs 162 pounds, one pound lighter than Hannegan, and both are fast.

Allen Shapley, one of Coach Ingram's quarter backs, will be the probable choice of Coach Ingram to direct the Navy grid craft against the Army. Shapley was out of the game early in the season, due to an injured leg, but in the Georgetown game he showed he had regained his former effectiveness. He is a good ball carrier and a punter. His home is in San Francisco.

J. B. Schuber is certain to be active in the Navy lineup as a quarter back to relieve Shapley and if he plays like he performed in the Georgetown game he may occupy that job the greater part of the afternoon. Schuber is particularly worth while for defensive work against forward passes. He came to Annapolis from the Naval Academy.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Lloyd Gallickson, former Chicago golfer, was able to proceed to Chicago today after receiving painful injuries in an auto accident here.

SPECIAL TRAINS RUSH PLAYERS TO MIDWEST

Squads Will Reach City at 2 P. M.

Probable Rain

THE Chicago weather bureau has promised that there won't be a blizzard sweeping across Soldiers' field at the time of the Army and Navy kick-off Saturday.

It was said that the yellow, green and purple slickers now in vogue will win a crushing victory over cable, raccoon and black bear coats, for if there is to be disagreeable weather it probably will be rain instead of snow. The temperature probably will be above normal, according to the special forecast.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Army football squad, all the coaches and various officials, left West Point in the march on to Chicago at 1:10 p. m. today in a special train that is due in Chicago at 2 p. m. tomorrow. The party numbered seventy. Upon arrival at Chicago the squad will be taken to a country club or Stags field for a drill.

As soon as cadet classes were over today the varsity players were rushed to the football field for an unexpected final practice of two hours. Coach Jones said that he didn't want to lose a single opportunity to perfect new Army plays.

Jones Silent on Result. While Jones would announce no definite lineup, indications pointed to the same starters that kicked off against Notre Dame two weeks ago. Harding, Wilson, Cagle, and Murrell practiced in the back field. Born and Harbold were in the wing positions, Sprague and Shapley at tackles, Schmidt and Hammack at guards, and Daly at center.

The cadet corps, 1,100 strong, and the 100 piece band will leave tomorrow at 3 o'clock, arriving in Chicago at 9:30 Friday morning.

Cadets Under Arms. Forty-seven sleepers, five baggage cars, and ten diners will make up the five special trains necessary to carry the Army contingent westward. For the first time in the history of Army-Navy football games the West Pointers will make the trip to the scene of the combat under arms. The cadets will carry rifles and will parade in the stadium at Soldiers' field during the dedicatory exercises Friday afternoon. The rifles will not be carried to the football game on Saturday.

The cadets are due home Sunday night, leaving Chicago directly following the game, but the Army football squad will not return until some time on Monday. Because of the long distance journey and consequent expense, fewer of the faithful Army fans will follow than ever before will make the trip.

May Elect Captain.

Prior to the squad's return from Chicago a new captain will undoubtedly be chosen, as it has been the custom to elect on the return trip from the Navy battle each year. Harbold, Born, Saunders and Wilson will all have one more season to play and are eligible for the captaincy. Hammack and Sprague have two more seasons, while Cagle and Murrell have each three more years before graduation. Brentnall, Meehan, Seeman, O'Donnell, Elias, Hall, Harris, Lynch, Muse, Nave, Winsor, Zimmerman, Dahl, Kiewit, Perry, Tobin, Fletcher, and Waldrop, all prominent substitutes during this season, will be available for next year's squad.

Brig. Gen. March E. Stewart, superintendent of the military academy, and Maj. Sherburne Whipple, post adjutant, also left for Chicago today to attend the game.

NAVY SQUAD LEAVES

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The youths who will represent the Navy in the great service battle at Chicago Saturday marched from the Naval academy to the West street station to start on their trip while their comrades gave them a send-off more impressive because it was informal and spontaneous.

The general feeling expressed here and shared by the players is that a time has come when a Navy victory is imperative, and there is confidence that the Naval academy team of 1926 can achieve it.

The squad, followed by the other midshipmen, left the main gate of the academy at 4:30 and left on a special train at 4:45. There was another impromptu celebration at the station, hundreds of the townspersons turning out. The squad is due in Chicago at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

Rear Admiral Louis Nulton, with Mrs. Nulton and many other officers and women of the Navy colony, were at the main gate at the foot of party marched through, and expressed their confidence in the players and their wishes.

Lieutenant Commander W. A. Rich, who has charge of the football team, while Commander Jonas H. Ingram, athletic director, and Commander Douglas E. Howard, football representative of the Navy association, were with it.

Navy Bill Ingram, field coach, and direct coach of the players, the other coaches with the party being Bill Ingram, Johnny Wilson, Edna, John...

Doctors Reveal Secrets of Face Powder Formulas

A report in a recent issue of the American Medical Journal on the composition of face powders tells how the flesh tints and other shades are arrived at. Dr. William H. Miller and Laurence H. Tausch of San Francisco were its authors.

"Face powders are of two kinds, heavy and light. The heavy powders are composed mainly of precipitated barium sulphate and very finely powdered talcum in varying proportions. The lighter powders are composed principally of starch. The finest powders are composed of rice powder, as this is considerably finer than either wheatstarch or cornstarch, although all three are used. Lead carbonate is used in only two or three cheap powders that are seldom sold in the United States. Bismuth subcarbonate was formerly used, but it is now employed in only two or three cheap powders that are seldom sold in the United States. Bismuth subcarbonate was formerly used, but it is now employed in only two or three cheap powders that are seldom sold in the United States.

The ingredients, such as zinc oxide, are often present for pathological skin conditions and are generally harmless, the report shows. Their long continued use as a cosmetic might cause a technical obstruction of the pores, but this may be obviated if the preparation is removed each night by some cream or cleansing lotion.

Powders are colored by the addition of minute quantities of the aniline dyes. This may set up a dermatitis, just as the aniline derivative paraphenylenediamine may when used as a hair dye.

"Most powders are perfumed," the report continues. "Some persons have an idiosyncrasy to certain perfumes and will develop a dermatitis even from the minute quantity that they encounter in a face powder. One of our patients develops a dermatitis whenever she encounters any cosmetic containing the slightest trace of eau de Cologne. Compact powders are usually heavy powders moistened with alcohol and then compressed. Sometimes a little chalk or zinc oxide is added, as such a mixture packs more solidly."

These two medical experts claim that compact powders cause more mechanical obstruction action than the loose powders, the explanation undoubtedly being that the compact, using a compact, rub the powder into the skin instead of using it as a light dusting.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MISS P. C. SWIMMING IN A most beautiful sport. It would be well to take a few lessons at a gymnasium. It will give you the confidence you lack and help you master it. Then you will have the courage to go to the beach. Swimming stimulates the heart and blood vessels, develops the bust and is an excellent all-around exercise.

LANE: AFTER THE BONES ARE not nothing short of an operation will correct bowed legs. The bones would have to be broken, set, and given time to knit. The shortest time it would take I am unable to say.

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.
Dark green crepella, with velvet trim matching shade for the band ending in a bow are the materials used in making this pretty dress. Wool jersey, satin, Canton crepe, and similar materials are also suitable. The trimming is on the front, in a deep V shape, and the straight back emphasizes the slender effect.
The pattern, 2895, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 26, 28, 40, 42, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 40 inch material; 42 inches requires 3 yards; 46 inches requires 3½ yards of 40 inch material; 42 inches requires 3½ yards of 46 inch contrasting.

Old Fashioned Girl Wonders if She Ought to Change Her Type

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My boy friend does not go with me any more because he says I am too old fashioned. I may be. I drink—but very little, as I don't like it. His crowd think me a wet blanket. I am simply wild about him, but do not let him know it. Should I change my old fashioned ways and try to be like the others?—S. S."

For what would you want to change? For the boy? Suppose you did change. Suppose you learned to drink and learned to like it. Then what? Suppose you learned to smoke and let yourself be maddled all over the place. Would you be happy about it? Wouldn't you loathe yourself for what you'd let yourself be dragged into? You would. If you any judge of character. You couldn't bear it, S. S., and don't give trying to be what you are not another thought.

Far more than you ever dream, S. S., one's happiness depends upon those long quiet hours you live with yourself. If you can face yourself in the quiet of your room with the consciousness that you have done nothing to be ashamed of you are a far happier girl than the one coming home from a wild party with liquor on her breath and the cheapened state of mind of the gutter. She is only appearing to have a better time than you. Deep down in her heart she wishes she had the courage to hold herself above reproach. If you are one kind of girl—you can't be another. If you are the old fashioned type, be it! There's popularity of a lasting kind in store for you. You won't be tossed from this arm into that and eventually cast off as undesirable by those very young men that encouraged the free and easy actions. It's a whole lot better to be a wet blanket on a wild party than to be a wet blanket to yourself after one. I don't, S. S., is what you are to yourself that counts.

Don't drink anything at all—not even a little. You'll get over being wild about the boy friend. He'll prove to your complete satisfaction one of these days how little he was worth getting wild about. You can help to recover from this sickness over him—for it isn't a healthy state of mind, you know—by giving some other boy a chance to find that old fashioned girl he's looking for.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Too Late Now

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 18, and was keeping company for a short time. I did not care for the boy at first, so we broke off. Then I realized that I cared for him. But now I don't know how to regain his friendship. Yours sincerely, Wonderson."

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each child's story printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return manuscripts. Write on one side of the paper. Address: Bright Sayings to Amy Day, The Tribune, Chicago.

Our neighbor's little boy Bobby, aged 4, had a pet dog, named Gyp, of whom he was very fond and they were great pals. One morning Gyp was missing, and gone for several days, and Bobby was lonesome.

Each day I inquired if Gyp had returned, and on the fourth day, Bobby said, "Well, I guess Gyp has gone off and got married."

Sonny had disappeared from the yard where he had been playing. After an hour of frantic search he was discovered looking in a shop window far from home.

"Why, Sonny, whatever made you wander off like that?" asked his mother. "We were nearly frightened to death about you."

"There wasn't nothing to be scared about," said Sonny. "Why, I knew right where I was all the time!"

HAROLD TEEN—HARDLY A FOOD TO BUILD GRID HEROES ON

Beautiful Lines Grace This Wrap

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK—[Special Correspondence.]

There is a high berth rate among many of the new winter clothes. Time and again some graceful fold over the shoulder is here to bring back the charm of mid-Victorian crinolines. Far different from the brusque and militant contours of our tailored tops are these feminine influences and on the evening wrap they take us a long way from those severe, tight-sleeved coats which were so much the vogue last winter.

The whole effect of today's evening cape is certainly one of femininity. Made of beautiful, pliant black velvet the cape receives its rich contrast of color from the rose and gold brocade which is adjusted like a bertha at the top. It will be noticed, however, that in the back this brocade merges into a tightly fitted yoke. This model is lined with the same brocade used for yoke and bertha and it is completed by a band of white fox.

This model is eloquent of a season when we may spare the fur and yet not spoil the evening wrap. Some of the most sumptuous models are content with a collar of pelt and leave the sleeves to take care of themselves. Others, as is the case of today's suggestion, reserve fur as a mere banding for collar or yoke of contrasting material. Indeed, it is quite possible to make one of this autumn's queenly wraps without a single touch of pelt.

FARM AND GARDEN
PUTTING GRAPE VINES UNDER DIRT BLANKET.

Vineyardists are warned that there is danger of grape vines being killed by cold weather. Grape growers of experience say that in about four out of five years the unprotected vines of such standard varieties as Moore's Early, Worden, and Concord will go through the winter in fine shape. Grape vineyards are not set out every year or two, they are more or less permanent things and it doesn't pay to take the chance of losing the vines by neglecting to protect them.

The more tender varieties such as Agawam, Green Mountain, Delaware, and Brighton should always be covered in winter, horticulturists say. Trellising grape vines is simple. Holdings of the Iowa station advise against the use of straw because mice and other rodents build runways into the shoots which they like to gnaw. He recommends instead a blanket of dirt.

In the northern sections where the winter is severe, as it is around Chicago, grape vines of both the standard and tender varieties should be taken off the trellises and covered with a blanket of dirt three or four inches thick.

Before lowering the vines to the ground experts advise cutting back about half the old wood that would ordinarily be pruned off, and leave the rest to be trimmed off in the spring when the dirt is removed. This prevents the breaking of the vines.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

The Peterkin's Thanksgiving.

Forty and fifty years ago the Peterkin family (Mrs. Lucretia P. Hale invented them) were amusing a large audience, and every so often, quoting "the lady from Philadelphia," thus establishing a personage of wide and long continued influence. In 1888 they decided to have a family party for Thanksgiving, but Mr. Peterkin asked, "How can we give a family dinner if we have no family to invite?" Mrs. Peterkin would not give it up because she had all the things, so the lady from Philadelphia told them how to get a household. You see, there were really a large number of people who thought themselves just like the Peterkins—like Agamemnon, Solomon John, Elizabeth Eliza, or Mr. or Mrs. Peterkin—so these people came, bringing flowers, fruits, vegetables, tongue, ham, mince pies. And they did not stay too long after the dinner, because "they exclaimed: 'We are a polite family. A true Peterkin does not intrude.'"

Mrs. Peterkin had ordered a real Rhode Island turkey—eighteen pounds—and chickens, pumpkins, squashes, all her vegetables, and "there was a special head of celery growing for her which the little boys visited every day. She had even laid in her nuts and raisins, and the little boys had the promise of cracking the nuts. The citron was bought in case they should decide to use citron in the mince pie, the tongue and ham were ordered, and the currants were concealed on an upper shelf of the kitchen closet. The earliest discussions concerning the celebration were about pie. Mrs. Peterkin wanted pumpkin pie because her mother had it. "Pumpkin pie seems the national thing," said Mr. Peterkin; "still, we all had squash pie for our Thanksgiving, and I am not sure but squash is as truly 'New England' as pumpkin." Mrs. Peterkin thought pumpkin was more Connecticut. And then came the question of what to put into the mince pie. "Solomon John and the little boys were of the opinion that all kinds of spice ought to be put into mince pies—indeed, everything that ever was put into mince pies." Agamemnon thought they ought to take the recipes for mince pie of the grandmothers on each side and make a combination of the two. The boys also thought it would be a good plan to try them all before Thanksgiving, so that they could decide which was the best.

LAWYERS PLEAD TO SAVE LIVES OF 6 CONVICTS

Expect Verdict Tomorrow
in Klein Murder Case.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Leonard Wolf, rape, sentenced to 1 year in the reformatory by Judge Emanuel Heller.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.
Joliet, Ill., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Defense lawyers pleaded today for the lives of six convicts on trial for the murder of Deputy Warden Peter M. Klein. A verdict is expected Friday.

Attorney William C. Mooney, representing Charles Duchowski, who was sent to Joliet from Chicago for the murder of Lt. Terrence Lyons, devoted his time to Assistant State's Attorney James E. Burke's argument that the six convicts all merited death. "He is young and ambitious," Mooney said regarding Burke, "and he would like to climb to fame through this case in which there are more men on trial for murder than in any other case in this state, excepting the anarchists of the Haymarket riot. These six men hanging in a row from the gallows would satisfy Burke's ambition."

Loss of Memory Told.
Regarding his client's guilt or innocence Attorney Mooney had little to say. Duchowski had never told him anything regarding the happenings of last May 3, when Klein was killed and the defendants escaped from the penitentiary. "All the lawyer knew was what Duchowski said on the witness stand," that Duchowski had smoked a hashish cigarette, which ruined his memory for that day.

Mooney did his best in talking about other issues than Duchowski's part in the murder. One point he made, that some one had told Duchowski the prison gates would be opened for him and they were opened.

Attorney Francis J. Loughran made an argument against the infliction of the penalty as a form of punishment. He, too, talked of Prosecutor Burke, and said he was sure that Burke, himself, would not inflict the death penalty if he were a juror instead of prosecutor.

Boys' Client Was Unarmed.
Loughran claimed his client, Robert Torres, was unarmed during the prison outbreak which resulted in Klein's death. He had to admit that his client was present and that Torres did escape after the murder, but he said Klein was killed after the escape.

"Who killed Peter M. Klein?" he thundered to the jury. "These men were gone two hours before Klein received his fatal wound."

Attorney A. A. O'Hanrahan suggested that some prison official was the arch conspirator of the escape. He said his client, Walter Stalesky, who was convicted in Chicago of robbery, had the mentality of a 13-year-old boy and was just a minor figure in the escape.

Attorney Mary Della Spencer called for the defense tomorrow, her clients being Gregorio Rizzo and Bernardo Rizo.

FREE PAIR HELD AS KIDNAPERS OF DAVID CULT GIRL

Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 24.—(U. P.)—Two members of the House of David religious cult arrested by state police after an automobile chase late today, were released tonight by Prosecutor George H. Bookwalter after three hours' grilling.

The arrest grew out of the alleged kidnapping of Cora Baushke, 20-year-old former cult member from the home in Detroit of Moses Clark, her uncle, early today, by Joseph Bally and Mrs. Sarah Bell, Clark's sister.

Prosecutor Bookwalter declared today the move by Mrs. Clark and Bally was an attempt to kidnap one of the state's most important witnesses, who has been sought to testify in the approaching trial of Purnell on charges of assault on former girl members of the colony.

Early today the county prosecutor received a report from Detroit that David Baushke, 24, and his wife, Cora, had been taken by force from the Detroit home of their uncle. Clark charged that his niece, Mrs. Baushke, was removed before daybreak and that Mrs. Bell, her mother, had indicated the girl would be taken to the House of David to make affidavits to aid Purnell.

Paw Paw constables took the occupants of the car into custody late today and escorted the automobile to Benton Harbor. Occupants of the automobile were Leona Ora, Joseph Baushke, Cora Baushke, Joseph Bally, Anna Woodworth and his wife, Countess Drake Woodworth, former colony members, and Mrs. Sarah Bell.

When Prosecutor Bookwalter demanded an explanation of the alleged kidnapping attempt, escorts of Mrs. Baushke denied any motives of abduction. They had gone to Detroit they said, bringing the Baushkes here at their request to spend Thanksgiving.

NEW YORK PLANS TO MERGE ALL ITS TRANSIT LINES

Would Own Transportation After 40 Years.

New York, Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Solution of the vexatious transit problem is contemplated in a plan to which the city administration, through its board of transportation, is devoting its attention. The framework intended to bring together the Interborough Rapid Transit company, the B-M-T and the city's interests for mutual protection. By harmonious adjustment it is hoped to effect a settlement which will eliminate further discussion of the transit fare.

Retention of the fare will be determined by many circumstances, chiefly the method employed by the city in financing its subway operation.

Plans Favored by Investors. Probably the most striking feature of the plan is a fixed income secured to the private investors. This income is not to exceed 6 per cent, it may even be less than that. In determining the amount, consideration will be given to the fact that holders of transit securities now are limited to 5 per cent and less on their bonds.

Complete reorganization of the Rapid Transit system, including the elevated lines, constitutes an important phase of the plan which provides for municipal ownership of the entire group in a period of approximately 40 years. Several conferences on the subject have been held between representatives of the Interborough and John H. Delaney, chairman of the board of transportation.

City Would Control Subways. Through the creation of a quasi-public corporation its income definitely limited, both the old and new subways would be subject to city control. The board of directors would be chosen by the city and by the security owners, each party having representation approximately equal to their investment. The city would have at least 50 per cent control, but by the process of gradual amortization private interests would be eliminated and complete ownership vested with the municipality.

There are several factors which will determine the final plan. It is conceded that the new arrangement will be constructed at a cost far beyond that of the old lines. Then again, the law authorizing the city to borrow $30,000,000 beyond its debt limit for subway construction that this limit, if unilaterally increased, is self supporting for the first three years of operation before the city would have to pay interest.

FRIENDS FOUND A CARR MEMORIAL CHARITY FUND

Memory of the late County Treasurer P. J. Carr is to be perpetuated in a permanent charity fund similar to the Carr fund established during the latter years of his life for the benefit of Chicago's poor. The friends yesterday formed the P. J. Carr Memorial Charity Fund and filed an application for a charter with the secretary of State, Emmerson at Springfield. The incorporators are County Board President A. J. Cermak, Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, County Treasurer Jacob Lindheimer, Congressman Thomas A. Doyle, Probate Judge Henry Horner, Scott Park President E. J. Kelly, Mayor William H. Dwyer, and Bernard J. Fallon.

Money this year will be raised by a football game at Soldier Field, Dec. 19, probably between Paddy Driscoll's team and the Green Bay Packers. The money will be distributed to the poor through the Chicago newspaper under the same system Mr. Carr adopted.

As another memorial to Mr. Carr, whose Chicago "spirit" or public improvement will be given his name, it is provided in a resolution adopted by the city council yesterday. Ald. John Connelley (1st), its author, suggested that a new boulevard on the southwest side near Carr's home might be named in his honor.

Order of the Builders to Hold Homecoming

A home coming celebration at the Order of the Builders, a boys' organization fostered by the Masonic order, will be held at Oak Park Masonic temple tomorrow evening. All the Illinois chapters have been invited. There will be a banquet, after which degrees will be conferred by a composite team made up of boys of the Chicago chapters and by the track team of the La Salle, Ill., chapter.

Inkwells and Insults Fly in French Parliament Row

BY JAY ALLEN.

(Chicago Times Press Service.)

PARIS, Nov. 24.—By howling down the Alsatian deputy, Charles Hubert, for speaking in his native dialect, clearly resembling German, the chamber of deputies today let itself in for what promises to be a dangerous debate on France's ever troublesome Alsatian problem.

Influenced by the chamber's refusal to hear the colleague, who tried to speak in the only language he knows, the other deputies from Alsace and Lorraine tonight announced they will force the issue with an amendment of the rules entitling a member of any racial minority to speak in his own tongue.

Socialists Prepare Attack.

The two socialist deputies, MM. Weill and Pierrot, also are preparing to interpellate the government on its attitude toward the recovered provinces, promising to air all their complaints against the administration, whose advent eight years ago was hailed with joy.

"What did you do during the war that won Alsace and Lorraine?" queried the Alsatian communist, Deleury.

"My best," answered Premier Poincaré.

"At Bordeaux," was the answer.

"Yes," at Bordeaux, but only because, being constitutional president, I had to obey the military commander's order to leave the seat of the government to Bordeaux. I did my best to keep it in Paris, but had to obey," said the premier, who was furious.

"Playing Germany's Game."

The right groups charged that the communists as well as the autonomists in Alsace are playing Germany's game, stirring a veritable hysteria among the majority of Alsatian deputies.

"We deny that we are agents of German imperialism, but why does France ask the Alsatians what they want?" they asked. "By forbidding Mr. Hubert to speak you have called the French nation's attention to the fact that you have a national minority within your frontiers."

"We will go back and tell the Alsatians their representatives are forbidden to speak their language in Paris," they yelled. One communist recalled Napoleon III's famous dictum: "The German language is French because Frenchmen—Alsatians—speak it."

Smears as Poincaré.

For the first time since the budget debate began Premier Poincaré, in an effort to smooth the delicate situation, agreed to changes in his estimates, granting $40,000 francs (about $17,000) more to schools and $2,000,000 francs (about $140,000) indemnity to the Alsatians who suffered from the French war measures. But he got only abuse for his pains.

SON TELLS HOW HUSZAR LOCKED UP HIS FATHER

Made Him Solicit Cash
Bond, Youth Says.

A father was kept as hostage until son was able to solicit cash bond from friends, according to testimony introduced yesterday in Judge Emanuel Eiler's court against Indian Joe Huszar and Edward J. Wareham, former chief of police and justice of the peace of Broadview. The two are charged with conspiracy as a result of their alleged speed trap operations during the last year.

Arthur Siska, 1913 South 60th court, Cicero, testified under the questioning of Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller and John Holman that he was arrested on May 23 while driving through the village. A cash bond of $25 was demanded. Neither the youth nor his father, Joseph Siska, who was with him, had the required amount.

"I will lock your father up until you go and get the money," Indian Joe told his captives, according to young Siska.

His father was locked in a cell for several hours while he drove to Chicago to get the required money, Siska said. At a trial a few days later before Justice Wareham he was told he was fined $10 for going 47 miles an hour, which he denied, and was given back $9, the witness said. No explanation was made to him of what happened to the other $17, he testified.

"It depends on how much time you make as to the amount you will be fined," was the statement made by Huszar to David O. Green and his wife, Lulu, 10235 Charles street, when he arrested them on the morning of May 30, Green told the court. He said he and his wife were required to give a $21 bond and at the trial several days later $10 was returned. When Mrs. Green said she desired to make an appeal, Judge Wareham told her that would cost an additional $12, she testified.

The state hopes to conclude its evidence against Huszar and Wareham tomorrow afternoon.

CHIEF OF ARMY AIR CORPS BEGS FOR NEW PLANES FOR RESERVE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—In an appeal for new flying equipment for the organized reserves, Maj. Gen. Magon M. Patrick, chief of the army air corps, today warned the country that unless provision is made for the purchase of new planes for this purpose it will be necessary to postpone or curtail all organized reserve and national guard flying.

Gen. Patrick's warning was sounded in his annual report to the secretary of war in which he again reiterates his last year's plea for a separate budget for the army air corps. Recommendation for separate promotion list for air officers was also made.

Referring evidently to the bitter controversy which raged last year as the result of the accusations of Col. William Mitchell, former assistant chief of the air service, Gen. Patrick made a plea for loyalty and wholehearted cooperation in building up both commercial and military aviation.

TALK LEASE OR SALE OF SURPLUS SCHOOL REALTY

Disposition either by lease or sale of school property not fitted for buildings is contemplated by the board of education in order to swell the allowance for teachers' salaries and for building purposes, it was learned yesterday.

Business Manager John E. Byrnes was directed by the board to make a survey of all such property.

A preliminary statement from Mr. Byrnes shows that the board owns 268 acres of land in what is known as the Austin tract, bounded by Roosevelt road, Cicero avenue, Madison street and Central avenue. The value of the property is estimated at $2,750,000. There are also forty-two other scattered parcels of school board land.

Immediate action by the board is considered. At the instance of Charles H. Wacker, chairman of the Chicago plan commission, Corporation Counsel Busch wrote to the school board requesting that the northeast quarter of the school board property at 83d street and Cicero avenue, on which the municipal air field is located, be leased to the city to be converted into a park. The question is now in the hands of the building and grounds committee of the board.

The site that the city has in mind, between 55th and 59th streets and Cicero and Laramie avenues, is in the heart of a rapidly growing section and now conveniently served by a park, according to Mr. Wacker.

SOLDIERS' FIELD ALL READY FOR ARMY AND NAVY FOOTBALL GAME TO BE PLAYED HERE SATURDAY AS WEST POINT AND ANNAPOLIS SQUADS LEAVE ACADEMIES FOR SCENE OF BATTLE. Panoramic view of the field on which the game will be played and the seats surrounding them. The picture was taken from the southernmost part of the permanent stands, where a little work has still to be done before Saturday, looking north towards the Field museum. The temporary stands are in the northern part of the field, all of them behind the northern goal line. The cadets and graduates of the two academies will occupy most of the east and west stands.
